KASSEL, GOTH A AND SUHL FALL TO YANKS

Americans Hold 80 Square Miles on Okinawa

U. S. Third Army Dashing Across German Plain

Closes In on Erfurt, Only 130 Miles Southwest of Berlin

PARIS, Thursday, April 5 (AP)—United States Third Army tank forces, breaking into the open Thuringian plain, captured Kassel, Gotha and Suhl yesterday and closed in on Erfurt, 130 miles southwest of Berlin, in their swift race to split the dying Reich.

In the north, British armored forces hurled two major river barriers, the lower Weser and Ems rivers, and plunged on toward the great German North Sea ports of Bremen and Emden.

One force pushing into Linen, fifty-five miles south of Emden, and sweeping onward, was only forty-five miles from cutting the last Nazi escape route out of all Holland, and Canadian troops on the western flank were overrunning V-bomb sites.

French Take Karlsruhe

Karlsruhe, capital of Baden on the upper Rhine, fell to the French First army at the extreme southern end of the front, a French communiqué announced. The adjoining United States Seventh Army pushed to Uffenheim, thirty-four miles northwest of Nuremberg, Nazi convention city and key road city controlling the Berlin-Brenner Pass routes into Italy. The Americans and French also were threatening Stuttgart, big South German city.

British Cross Weser

Field Marshal Montgomery's British Eleventh armored division swept around Osnabrück, where the last bitter German resistors were being slain, and crossed the Weser river, one of the last two water barriers before Berlin, in an apparent double strike aimed at Hannover and Bremen.

Although the exact point of the crossing was not divulged in a late front dispatch, it apparently occurred about Minden, which is fifty-three miles south of Bremen and thirty-two miles west of Hannover. The British "plunged beyond against light opposition," said a dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent William Fife.

The American Third army, pacing the Allied drive in the center, ran through surrendered Gotha and moved on toward Erfurt, eleven miles beyond, astride the Frankfurt-Dresden military superhighway. The Germans said forty Allied gliders set down troops, fuel, and munitions to aid the capture of ancient Gotha.

Mid-Continent Swept by High Winds, Cold Wave

(By The Associated Press) Heavy snow, bitter cold, high winds and flood waters harassed the mid-continent yesterday (Wednesday).

Wintry intrusions on the spring season, well advanced by abnormally warm March weather, threatened fruit crops, blocked highways, closed rural schools and disrupted travel. Snowfall ranged up to seventeen inches in Minnesota, the worst April storm since 1928. Northern and Western Iowa had a much as six inches. A Rocky Mountain storm left up to fourteen inches in Colorado and Wyoming, accompanied by seventeen below zero weather at Laramie, Wyo., and fourteen below at Leadville, Colo. Freezing weather extended as far south as Texas, where a low of twelve was reported from Pampa. Chicago Weather Bureau forecasters said the snow was clearing out for the most part but freezing weather would continue today in the midwest, the plains and the southwest.

Fruit apparently was the most endangered of the crops. E. H. Hoppe, Nebraska Agricultural College horticulturist, said the temperatures around fifteen expected today would "take practically everything" in the fruit line.

U. S. May Move To Solve Tough Polish Problem

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Signs appeared tonight that the Russian-British-American negotiations at Moscow on the subject of revamping the Polish government are approaching a deadlock which the United States may move to break.

This situation developed even as Secretary of State Stettinius expressed confidence that "a fair solution will be reached."

The three-power talks started almost immediately after the Crimea conference in February. No accomplishment has been reported. Representatives of the three countries can not agree on which Poles should come to Moscow to discuss formulation of a new, unified government for Poland.

Stettinius made his statement in a letter to Senator Taft (R-Ohio). Taft has written the secretary urging that the United States "refuse approval to any provisional government which is predominantly under the influence of the Russian government or is not proportionately representative of the Polish people."

He suggested the treatment accorded underground fighters in Poland and Polish troops fighting with the United Nations Allies as a test of a new government.

"It would be a tragic error for the United States to recognize any government," Taft said, "under whose rule the existing Polish armies would be unable or afraid to return to Poland."

Stettinius said in his reply that "progress (in the Moscow talks) has not been as rapid as we had hoped for but I am still confident that a fair solution will be reached."

The United States representative, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, continued, "is consistently and steadfastly working for the reestablishment of a Polish government that will be broadly representative of the Polish people and the creation of conditions in Poland that will permit the holding of a free and fair election."

The Polish question is the focal point of a whole series of current diplomatic headaches among the Big Three.

These include Western Allied objections to unilateral Russian action in Romania, growing signs of similar Soviet maneuvering in Bulgaria, and the Russian request for three seats in the Assembly of the future world organization to be set up at the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

Vinson Confirmed

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Fred M. Vinson, 55-year-old Kentuckian, was confirmed unanimously by the senate today as director of war mobilization and reconstruction.

One Werewolf broadcast claimed "an American spy headquarters in Schweinfurt was wiped out last night" and "all Americans, including several high officers, were killed." There are two Schweinfurts, one a suburb of Aschaffenburg, the other in the Cologne area.

"Drunk" Americans Killed

In Mainz, the Werewolf station said, "three drunken American officers" were killed by Werewolves after they had fired into windows "in order to tell inhabitants to put out the lights."

Bratislava Falls To Red Forces; Hungary Cleared

Reeling Germans Being Driven Back along the Mura River

By ROMNEY WHEELER

LONDON, Thursday, April 5 (AP)—The Russians took Bratislava by storm, hurled the last Germans from Hungary, and slashed into the suburbs of Vienna yesterday through the hinge of the enemy's principal defense line.

Announcing these successes in an order of the day by Premier Stalin and in the nightly communiqué, Moscow also disclosed that the reeling Germans were being driven back along the Mura river valley in Northeastern Yugoslavia and that a great two-army pincer was clamping down on the last Nazi positions in Hitler's puppet state of Slovakia.

Bratislava Captured

Premier Stalin announced the capture of Bratislava, capital of Slovakia and a key Danube river stronghold of 160,000 population, less than twenty-four hours after Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian army had laid siege to the city.

While Malinovsky's men, ashore and afloat in river gunboats, were storming the city, others of his great army group advanced eight to ten miles north and west along a 100-mile-long front in Slovakia and spearheaded through the Little Carpathian mountains, where the Germans vainly sought to hold a re-doubt, the broadcast Moscow communiqué disclosed.

Capture 4,600 Nazis

The Germans in the little Carpathians alone lost 4,600 men captured Tuesday, Moscow announced. Simultaneously, it announced, Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian forces seized more than thirty communities south and southwest of Vienna, including Zwettl, only a mile and a half from the southern city limits and seven and a half from the 450-foot tower of historic St. Stephen's cathedral in the very heart of the Austrian capital.

In this advance, Tolbukhin smashed straight through Himberg, a mile and a half southwest of Zwettl, and the point at which previous Moscow dispatches said the Germans had anchored their strongest line of anti-tank guns.

The last ditch defense of Vienna, which the Nazis had proclaimed, was at hand.

Nazi Military Speakers See Defeat of Allies

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—German military commentators condemned tonight that the Allies were over-reaching themselves, while the Nazi radio boasted that the "Werewolf" terrorist organization had wiped out an American headquarters and slain a number of Americans at various points behind the lines.

Radio speakers suggested that the speed and scope of the Allied advance "might have the effect of a giant sponge, soaking up the war potential of the enemy and paralyzing his offensive strength," and opined "the temptation to attempt too much is great."

Not Really Stabilized

The Germans acknowledged, however, that "the situation is by no means stabilized."

Commentator Max Krull asserted: "The Werewolf has not been brought to its knees. The encircled Ruhr army resumed active yesterday in full strength."

A German radio station calling itself the "Werewolf Sender" meanwhile appealed to German women to join the organization.

One Werewolf broadcast claimed "an American spy headquarters in Schweinfurt was wiped out last night" and "all Americans, including several high officers, were killed." There are two Schweinfurts, one a suburb of Aschaffenburg, the other in the Cologne area.

Hard Coal Miners Ask 25 Per Cent Boost in Wages

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—The United Mine Workers today asked a twenty-five per cent salary increase for 72,000 workers in the hard coal field.

The miners also demanded a royalty of ten cents per ton, as they did in the bituminous negotiations, and asked severance pay for suspensions, dismissals and layoffs.

A set of thirty demands was presented by President John L. Lewis to the representatives of 190 hard coal producers in Eastern Pennsylvania as negotiations opened for a new contract to replace the one expiring April 30.

Lewis said before the negotiations began that the miners had received "only a fifteen per cent increase since 1923" and that they now deserved "a considerable increase" because "we know industry is prosperous."

At a press conference following the first negotiations session, UMW Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy said "we believe there is enough leeway in our demands to keep within the Little Steel formula."

Kennedy also said there was no way at present to estimate the overall cost of the demanded increases to the operators because of varying pay rates among miners.

Ralph E. Taggart, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, said the operators would give "full consideration" to the demands, adding that they had received them only today and would need time to study them.

The negotiations were recessed until next Tuesday (2 p. m. EDT) at which time the operators are expected to make a detailed statement.

Taggart said the anthracite miners were among the nation's right to be paid workers, that they have a seven-hour basic work-day and that their average wage was $1.17 an hour.

German "Hangman" Captured by Reds

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—Gaulleier Arthur Greiser, whose grim role in Poland earned for him such names as "the bloody butcher of Poland" and "hangman of the Polish people," was captured in Poznan by the Red army, it was reported today by the Soviet War News, a publication of the Russian embassy here.

Greiser was one of the first Nazi leaders whose European activities brought on the war. President of the Senate of the Free City of Danzig, Greiser organized the campaign for Danzig's Nazification. He helped terrorize the city and told the people Hitler was determined to annex it.

When the war started Greiser was appointed Polish Gauleiter. Boasting "there will be no Pole in my district in five years," he proceeded to carry out the threat by mass murder and deportation.

Baruch Predicts 5 to 7 Years of Real Prosperity

Declares He's in London "To Hold Big Stick Over Big Boys"

LONDON, Thursday, April 5 (AP)—Looking confidently into the future, Bernard Baruch, adviser to President Roosevelt, asserted in an interview published today that American servicemen would not have anything to worry about when they got home, that "there will be more work in the United States than there will be hands with which to do it."

This wave of prosperity, he told a reporter for the army newspaper Stars and Stripes, would carry over for five to seven years after the war "no matter what is done or not done."

Silent on Mission

The 75-year-old financier, who has held several conferences with Prime Minister Churchill, was reluctant to talk about the exact nature of his mission to London. But he spoke freely in expressing confidence in the immediate future, and added:

"What happens after those five or seven years depends on the peace the big boys are preparing for us now."

Baruch's interview was given to A. Victory Lasky, Stars and Stripes staff writer. As originally prepared for publication it quoted Baruch as saying at this point:

"And one reason I am over here is to hold the big stick over the big boys to make damn sure they're not going to foul up the peace."

"We've got to so de-industrialize Germany and Japan—at least for a generation—so they won't go to war again. Also we've got to see that those subsidized slave labor countries do not again flood the world with their cheap products, lowering the standards of living of the United Nations."

Seeks To Withhold Story

After Lasky's version of the story had been put into type and an abstract had been transmitted by the Associated Press to the United States, where it was widely published, Baruch's secretary asked that it be withheld from publication. However, after deletion of the two foregoing paragraphs, it was published by Stars and Stripes.

Lasky said that during the interview, in Baruch's suite in the Claridge, the telephone rang and Baruch's secretary told him the prime minister was calling. Baruch, Lasky said, gave Churchill a mild brush-off to continue his talk with the soldier reporter.

"Hello, Winston, this is Bernie," Baruch said into the phone, according to Lasky. "Look, Winston, I'm busy this afternoon. I'll drop over later." Lasky's account of this incident also was deleted from the final version carried by Stars and Stripes.

In the published interview Baruch said that one thing that should be more effective at present was the "G-I Bill of Rights."

"When a veteran is discharged he should be told his rights—rights which are not charity dispensed by a beneficent community but rights which he earned," Baruch said. "He should be protected from super-salesmanship designed to sell him everything from a piece of useless property to a used car."

His Eye Serving At Front While He Stays Home

ST. JOSEPH, La., April 4 (AP)—John W. Amos's eye is doing duty in its second world war, but the eye is overseas and Amos is here. He received a letter today from Frank Chabina of Hammond, La., a young man to whom he gave the uninjured retina of a blinded eye several years ago when the two became acquainted in a New Orleans hospital.

The letter said:

"Now, Pop, you can tell the people that your eye—I mean 'our' eye—is back in the fight again. It's remarkable, isn't it? You were in the last world war with your eye, and now I have that same eye in this war, and if luck stays with me I'm coming back with it. I hope I can visit you soon after my return to the good old U.S.A."

3,000 Planes Raid Shrunken Germany

LONDON, April 4 (AP)—The Allies hurled 3,000 planes against the dwindling targets of shrunken Germany today, including 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators which blasted submarine building yards at throughout the Northwestern Reich.

The American attacks were driven home despite stiff opposition from formations of jet-propelled ME-262s. Nine bombers and four fighters were missing, but the Swedish radio said one of the bombers landed safely at Malmö airport in Sweden.

Returning crewmen reported good results at Kiel.

"BUSTER", mascot of a Canadian Signal corps unit in Holland, is ready for a ride with Sgt. C. H. Broadwell, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals. Small as he is, "Buster" is not afraid of the Nazis as he has been shown when enemy prisoners are anywhere near.

40th Division Lands Troops on Masbate Island

MANILA, Thursday, April 5 (AP)—Eighty army infantrymen of the Fortieth division landed Tuesday on Masbate Island in the Central Philippines off the west coast of Samar, headquarters announced today. As the whirlwind cleanup campaign in the Philippines continued the communiqué announced the first landing in as many days was effected with little opposition.

Guerrillas Aid Yanks

Guerrilla forces are assisting in the new landing as they have in the earlier ones.

"We are rapidly securing the island" the communiqué added. Summarizing the effectiveness of the campaign which in less than six months has brought recapture of the greater portion of the Philippines the communiqué said:

"Many Japs Ships Sunk

"Already our blockade has sunk many hundreds of thousands of tons of enemy shipping and with the acquisition of the Tawitawi base (blockade) it is now in complete operation."

Pointing out the difficulties Japan is encountering in shipping oil, rubber and other essentials from the Southwest Pacific to the mainland past the chain of Allied air bases, MacArthur said:

"The Dutch East Indies are now isolated not only for exploitation but from enemy reinforcements and supply. It is the culmination of one phase of the campaign."

Conference To Discuss Commerce Problems

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius said tonight "we shall do all in our power" to convene a conference of the world's principal trading nations within the next year to consider commerce problems.

Stettinius emphasized government plans for the "removal of the political, economic and social causes of war" in a speech before the council on foreign relations.

The proposed trade conference, he said, "would also prepare the way for establishment of a permanent trade organization within the framework of the world organization, to deal with these problems on a continuing basis."

Farms under Water

NEW ORLEANS, April 4 (AP)—Inundated farms, refugee camps, drowning livestock and bee-busy sandbag crews marked the courses of lesser Arkansas and Louisiana rivers tonight, and on the Mississippi engineers made ready to turn a part of the flood through the 1,000 square mile Atchafalaya basin.

those conquest corridors that are leading inevitably to utter German defeat. They have played a vital role in the Russian steam-roller surge to the Oder. They are playing an all important part in the Allied surge beyond the Rhine.

Once German frontiers were passed, Russian and Allied maneuvers were largely grooved to that great autobahn network. The logistical miracles wrought by the armies invading Germany could not have been possible without it.

Buckner's Tenth Army Unopposed In Great Sweep

Third Marine Corps Also Reports Making Sensational Gains

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

GUAM, Thursday, April 5 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner's veteran Tenth army forces swept forward in sensational new gains over Okinawa yesterday and by nightfall of the fourth day of the virtually unopposed invasion had about eighty square miles—or one-sixth of the island—under their control.

Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's Third marine amphibious corps on the north flank advanced quickly to a point 3,000 to 4,000 yards north of Ishikawa and threw a defense line across the neck of Okinawa's narrowest isthmus.

Japs May Attack

This section could be defended comparatively easily by the 60,000 or more Japanese troops on the island, only 325 miles south of Japan itself, but there still was no report of an engagement in force.

On the south Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce's Seventy-seventh infantry division, with other units, pushed forward against virtually negligible resistance and held a line between Uchi Tunani on the west coast, Kamiyama in the center and Nakagusuku on the east coast.

The Katchin peninsula on the east coast was overrun by the marines. This gave the Yanks control of the entire eastern shoreline of Nakagusuku harbor, former Japanese fleet anchorage which soon may be put to American use.

Troops moving down the west coast were within approximately two miles of the Machinato airfield and four miles from Naha, capital city of Okinawa and largest in the Ryukyus with a population of 66,000. They were about four miles from another airstrip, Yonabaru, which is incomplete.

Gains from two to four miles were registered in all sectors, and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communiqué today said the enemy still "offered scattered resistance to the advances of all troops."

The Yanks were many days ahead of schedule.

Associated Press correspondent Vern Haugland reported that towns, villages and military objectives had been reduced to rubble. Airmen were complaining they were unable to find suitable targets.

Japanese civilians were giving themselves up in droves.

A carrier task force under Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman of San Diego, Calif., attacked Ryukyu targets just north of Okinawa on Tuesday, inflicting heavy damage.

Civilians Will Get Less Sugar Balance of Year

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Civilians in the United States, famous for their sweet tooth, will find war from the sugar standpoint.

This sour report came today from Lt. Col. R. W. Olmstead of the War Food Administration, who said the comparative supply figures are seven per cent less than in 1944 and fourteen per cent less than the 1935-39 average.

The American estimate figures out at eighty-three pounds per civilian, even a little less than that in Great Britain are due to get.

Figures for England

Olmstead, who is chairman of WFA's Allotments committee, said that in the United Kingdom the 1945 sugar estimate is due to go up twenty-three per cent over 1944 to eighty-six pounds per capita. This, however, is seventeen per cent less than 1934-38 average.

For Canada, the estimate is eighty-three pounds, four per cent below 1944 and twelve per cent below 1935-39.

Olmstead supplied the figures in testimony before senators investigating food shortages.

Germany's 6-Lane Highways, Built For War Use, Help Defeat the Nazis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff War Analyst

When the full story of Nazi Germany is written historians will record the great web of autobahns as a prime factor leading first to initial Nazi victories and finally to defeat. Autobahn is the German name for the six-lane super military highways conceived and built to implement plans for continental mastery and world domination. They made possible swift and sudden concentrations of the once mighty Wehrmacht east, west or south against ill-prepared neighbors.

102 School Buses Are Inspected, Ramey Reports

Inspection of 102 vehicles which haul children to and from schools in Allegany county has been completed, Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel, announced yesterday.

The list of vehicles given a thorough checking includes fifty privately owned buses and seven passenger cars, twenty-three buses of the Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, eight buses of the Mt. Savage Bus Lines, seven buses of the Albright Bus Company and five buses and two private cars which transport children from Garrett county to schools in Allegany county.

All contractors are required to immediately correct any items not approved by the inspectors. When such corrections are made the items will be checked and a supplementary report filed with the state commissioner of motor vehicles. Original reports of the examination are being sent to Baltimore. Reports are made in triplicate, a white form being forwarded to the commissioner, a yellow one to the contractor and a pink one to the board of education.

Major Defects Are Few
The report indicated that out of a total of fifty privately owned buses inspected twenty-five were satisfactory in every respect. Every bus serving the Flintstone and Piney Plains schools was given top rating. Minor changes were recommended for the other carriers. The most serious defects reported on several buses concerned the exhaust system, steering mechanism, which needed tightening, and brake adjustments.

Out of a total of twenty-three C. & W. buses inspected only two serious defects were listed. One had loose steering mechanism and another a defective exhaust system. One of the buses of the Mt. Savage line had an exhaust pipe which did not extend to the rear of the body while a carrier of the Albright line required an adjustment to the steering mechanism. Two of the buses and private cars hauling children from Garrett county checked 100 per cent perfect in the inspection. Defects in the others included a bad stop light, faulty exhaust system, loose steering mechanisms and the need for brake adjustments.

5,000 Use Bus Routes
Ramey stated that 5,300 school children are normally hauled over the bus routes but at the present time the total is down to 5,000. Allegany county ranks fourth in the state in the matter of total children being transported to and from school by buses and private cars.

Ridgeley High Will Compete in Literary Contest in Keyser
Ridgeley high school is one of the nine high schools competing in the District 9 Literary Contest, being sponsored by Potomac State school, Keyser, W. Va. Melvin M. Heiskell, principal, reported last evening.

It will enter three events. Mary Lou Sewell will take part in the seven minute oration; Doris Scharf, the debate; and Margaret Herschberger, interpretation of poetry.

Although the state contest has been dropped for the duration, Potomac State is continuing the district contests and awards a two year scholarship to the winner of each event.

Mr. Heiskell is coaching for the oration; Miss Georgiana Kelly, for the debate and Miss Elsie Lou Hendrickson, for poetry.

Fund Is Set Up To Aid Liberated Elks in Philippines

Headed by Thomas J. Wolff, past grand officer of Manila Lodge of Elks, a special committee has been set up in the Philippines capital to bring relief and assistance to recently liberated Elks internees, according to word received today by Harry I. Stegmaier, exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, from James H. Nichols, chairman of the Elks War Commission, New York City.

An appropriation of $100,000, made available from the fraternal order's war chest, has been set aside for the purpose. The money will be used to purchase medicine, food and clothing, and provide loans for members of Manila lodge and other Elks who were held prisoners by the Japs until their liberation by American forces recently.

Wolff, whose appointment has just been announced by the Elks War Commission, is a prominent Manila business man and has substantial mining interests in the Philippines. He was former chairman of the Central Executive Committee of the American Red Cross, serving under former Commissioner Francis B. Sayre and the late Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines.

Prior to Japanese occupation, Manila Lodge of Elks had 489 members. A large number of these men, together with other Elks in the islands at the time of the invasion were interned.

In addition to the relief work being conducted in the Philippines under Wolff's direction, an Elks War Relief Committee has been established in San Francisco, to meet and give assistance to Elks returning to this country after their liberation from Jap internment camps.

MRS. SPIES RITES
Funeral services were conducted yesterday at 2 p. m. in the Knight funeral home for Mrs. Elizabeth A. Spies, 95, widow of Anthony Spies, who died in Sylvan retreat Monday.

The Rev. J. F. Zimmerman, pastor of First Congregational church, Frostburg, officiated and interment will be in Allegany County cemetery.

Vincent Boch Weds Dorothy May Blake At Hickory, Md.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy May Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Blake of Bel-Air, to Vincent Bernard Boch, s. 2-c., son of Mrs. George H. Boch, LaVale, and the late Mr. Boch.

The ceremony was solemnized April 2 in St. Ignatius church, Hickory, Md., with Father Reed, the pastor, officiating. Mrs. Paul Blake, was the matron of honor and her sister-in-law's only attendant. George A. Boch, this city, served as his brother's best man.

The bridegroom attended LaSalle high school and was employed at the Queen City Electric Company, prior to working as an electrician for the United States Navy in Pearl Harbor for eighteen months. He returned to the states last April and enlisted in the navy in May. After receiving his basic training at Bainbridge, he was stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., naval air base on a crash cruiser.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Boch visited relatives here before leaving yesterday for Jacksonville, where they will reside.

LASTING WORLD PEACE DEPENDS ON SHARING WEALTH, WILSON SAYS

There is no reason to expect a lasting peace after the war unless a plan is developed for an equitable distribution of the world's wealth, Dr. Theodore Halbert Wilson, president of Baltimore university, told members of the Rotary club at their Tuesday meeting in Central YMCA.

Dr. Wilson offered four recommendations that must be adhered to after the war if there is to be a sane world. These recommendations he listed as work, play, love and religion.

All trouble, Dr. Wilson asserted, is caused by a desire to possess things. He said it starts with children, one of whom has a block and the other a ball. The one with the ball wants the other child's block and eventually a squabble develops over possession of it.

Adults frequently desire the possessions of other adults and try to acquire them either by right or wrong methods. Locally, he added, squabbles develop over material things, and internationally wars are caused by desires for territory and power.

Reluctance of some miners to work without a new contract, slow return after Monday's belated observance of the "John Mitchell" miners' holiday and delayed receipt of Lewis's back-to-work telegrams were other reasons ascribed for absences from the mines.

Two Men Are Held On Drunk Charges

Edward Deatelhouser, this city, will receive a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of drunkenness. He was arrested yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Officer Theodore M. Rose after he fell on Mechanic street. The local man was bleeding badly from a laceration of the right cheek suffered in the fall.

Edward Shields, Frostburg, will receive a hearing this morning on the same charge. He was arrested last evening at 10:50 o'clock by Officer John G. Powers after he cut his nose when he fell against a "no parking" sign at the Blue Ridge bus terminal.

ously to the distribution saying Western Maryland is not getting a fair share of the trout being stocked. Streams in Western Maryland are far better suited for trout, he said. He declared that streams in Washington and Frederick county get more fish than those in Allegany and Garrett. Two streams in Washington receiving 6,350 and two in Frederick 12,550. He also pointed out that Powell lives in Frederick county and Bentz in Washington.

In Smith's opinion the only solution to the problem is to locate a series of hatcheries throughout the state. He said he opposes the plan of some sportsmen to build one large hatchery, adding that the cost in transporting fish from the hatchery to Western Maryland would amount to enough in twenty years to build a hatchery in Garrett county.

In closing Smith said he believed fish as well as game should be stocked in their natural habitat and said that certainly the streams in Allegany and Garrett counties were ideal for trout.

Large Crowd Present
One of the largest crowds ever to attend a meeting of the association was present and a number of new members were taken into the organization. Following a business session, Rudolph Nickel, secretary, served as master of ceremonies and introduced Stewart and Smith. Following the addresses an interesting program of entertainment was given.

The entertainers were Lou Bittner, pianist; Charles Steiner, banjo; Miss Elizabeth Ann Dively, who presented four dances, and Miss Mary Werner, who sang several selections. Following the program refreshments were served.

Two Men Are Sentenced To Prison in Theft Of Car, Tires

Charged with the unauthorized use of a car and the theft of two tires from the machine, two young men arrested by state police were sentenced to the Maryland House of Correction after a hearing in trial magistrates court yesterday before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

They are Harry Mullen Smith, Jr., 21, Edgewood drive, and Howard Budd Wright, 23, alias Howard Budd LeFevre, of near Rawlings. They were sentenced to serve one year each for the tire thefts and six months apiece for the unauthorized use of the machine.

State Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who made the arrests, said Wright and Smith stole a car owned by Homer J. Beverlin, Route 1, Ridgeley, W. Va., from a parking lot near the Winewest street subway here last Friday.

Later they drove to Rawlings, removed two front tires from Beverlin's car, threw the license tags in a ditch, and abandoned the machine in a field, Rotruck said.

Police said Smith was on parole from a charge of robbery in Washington county in 1942. Wright testified that he is a serviceman absent without leave from a midwestern army camp.

Dips Wings to Relatives

Lt. John H. Shaffer, Bedford, Pa., was the pilot of a B-24 Liberator bomber which flew low over the Bedford street section Sunday morning. Lt. Shaffer "dipped his wings" to his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hafer, 518 Fetting avenue.

The Bedford navy pilot is now stationed at Norfolk, Va., after flying thirty-five missions aboard a coastal patrol bomber in the European theater. He also took part in the Normandy invasion. Lt. Shaffer's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Shaffer, Bedford.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is 23 and I'm 19. We were married in February of last year, and he went overseas in April. We were very much in love, and everything was wonderful until I stopped writing for a short time. That was due to a small operation

I had to have performed, and I didn't want to worry him.

It started him to thinking I was unfaithful to him, and nothing I can write him now will make him change his mind. He doesn't trust me and says he's not a bit impressed with my words of devotion. I've never wanted another man, and I love my husband very much.

His mother gets an allotment and is beneficiary for his insurance and he writes her every week and says he's "On the outs" with me. I don't care about his insurance but want more than anything to have him believe in me.

WONDERING.

The remedy in a similar case brought apologies, love-letters and a general groveling from the Othello-like husband. But the "cure" is almost too much to expect of a high-spirited girl. My correspondent who was too much in love to be high-spirited, got the doctor in the hospital where she was operated on, to write to her over-jealous husband.

The mother-in-law element in your letter makes your situation difficult. If she were a "nice" person she'd back you up. Why doesn't she write to her son and tell him you're had an operation? If he follows the usual pattern of jealous husbands overseas, however, he'll make up when his anger subsides.

Girl Can't Decide

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a man of 24 years of age. A year ago I fell deeply in love with a girl 19 (unmarried) who has a child. If she seemed to love me at first, but we had a quarrel six months ago and now she has become engaged to a man in the service.

When I met her the other day she told me she'd like to be friends with me, but when I asked her to go "steady" she said she wanted to wait until the soldier came home; she couldn't decide which one of us she wanted.

Although I knew the girl had the child, I always had a great deal of respect for her, but now I can't make up my mind whether she's worth my love. I have been rejected by the service because of an accident, and have a good steady job. While going with her I always bought her nice gifts and took her any place she wanted to go. I have no one to advise me—please help me.

A. L. F.

You have to give this girl credit for being frank. She won't decide between you and the soldier until he returns. Many girls would have agreed to go "steady" for the sake of going places. It's also to her credit that she admitted the child and cares for him. At 19, presumably she's had much more experience in life than you've had at 24, and as the question has arisen in your mind whether she is worthy of your love, it would be a mistake to marry her harboring such a doubt.

Couple Wants To Remarry

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband and I are divorced, and he is married again. His mother was the cause of our separation, and now he tells me he doesn't love his wife and never has. His mother planned that move also. My ex-husband found out his wife has been untrue to him since he's been in the service.

He wants to marry me again, and as we really love each other, what would you advise? I know we'd have to move far away from his mother, if you did marry again, as she would always be interfering in our happiness. His wife knows he doesn't love her.

B. S.

If you and your ex-husband have found that your divorce and his re-marriage were a mistake, it is certainly your ex-husband's privilege to go to court and have his marriage dissolved, particularly as you tell me his wife has been unfaithful to him since he's been in the service.

If you decide to remarry, the only sensible thing to do is to move out of the jurisdiction of your meddling mother-in-law.

Stalin's Attitude on Smaller Nations Revealed in Private Talk a Year Ago

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — Tip-off as to how Joe Stalin feels about smaller nations was given more than a year ago in a private talk with Cuban Ambassador Conchoso. It gave a significant indication of why Stalin demands three votes in the United Nations Assembly.

Stalin admitted the ambassador with his knowledge of Cuban labor and economic problems, but talked as if Cuba were part of the United States. Conchoso explained that the Platt Amendment had been abrogated and Cuba now had complete political freedom. But this made little impression on Stalin. He viewed Cuba as wedded to the U.S.A. Then he turned to Argentina. And with considerable vehemence, he remarked that it was about time the United States took Argentina in hand and forced it to join the Allies. Stalin's eyes flashed when he talked of Argentina and he seemed to believe that the United States had complete control of the entire American continent.

Ambassador Conchoso explained that Argentina was a long way off from the U.S.A. and that the United States took pains to respect the independence of Latin American states. But Stalin seemed unconvinced.

Stalin's Border States

Since then, evidence has increased that the Soviet considers (1) Latin America as a bloc which will always vote with the United States; (2) smaller nations close to a big power as legitimate satellites of that power.

For instance, when Winston Churchill visited Moscow last summer, Stalin was very frank in saying that Russia must have a series of states on her western border—Poland, Rumania, Finland which were friendly to her. He made it plain that the Soviet would not tolerate for a minute a government in these bordering states which did not co-operate with the U. S. S. R.

Since then, Stalin has changed the government of Rumania when it suited him, has forced the Allies to accept the Polish Labin government, and has caused a government turnover in Finland.

So the coldly realistic Stalin employs with his neighbors are employed also by the U. S. A. with its neighbors; and if not then it's only complaint to the Cuban Ambassador.

HEADED OVERSEAS

CHAPLAIN Maj. Gen. William R. Arnold is shown in Washington, D. C., after he had received the Distinguished Service Medal for serving "with great distinction" during his eight-year tour as chief of chaplains. Arnold has just received an important overseas inspection assignment.

was that the United States didn't crack down on Argentina.

Sixteen Soviet Votes

Stalin's views regarding small countries were expressed quite clearly at the closed-door sessions of the Dumbarton Oaks Conference. Ambassador Gromyko pointed out that Russia, occupying one-sixth of the earth's surface, would have only one vote, while the British Commonwealth would have six.

Stettinius replied that the United States almost as large as Russia, had only one vote and was not complaining. Gromyko countered with the reminder that the United States dominated twenty Latin American republics and could swing twenty-one votes.

For a while, the Dumbarton Oaks parity was completely overlooked. But, finally, Gromyko revealed that his government planned to organize sixteen Soviet republics.

At this, both Roosevelt and Churchill hit the ceiling.

In the end, Russia agreed to postpone the question of sixteen votes until Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin could sit down together. This was what FDR faced at Yalta.

And out of this came the compromise of three votes for both the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R.

Note—Some diplomats believe it would have been wiser if FDR had merely let Stalin have his three votes, with one vote only for the U.S.A. They believe the small countries, plus public opinion, would have been strong enough to force a Russian change in the end. Diplomats also recall that for years the Soviet was boycotted by the State department and the world generally, and we are now paying the price. It is not easy to ally Soviet suspicions overnight.

Bynes Steps Out

For a long time, soft-spoken little Jimmy Bynes, the president's all-around handyman, has been wanting to retire from office. He has been working all hours of the day and night, is tired, in poor health and in need of a physical check-up.

For a long time, also, the gentleman from South Carolina has been keeping a book on his chief in the White House. It's not exactly a diary, but a record of things Jimmy has heard but never got. Probably he'll never publish it. In fact, only his close friends know it exists. But those that do say it puts the chief in a bad position when it comes to keeping promises.

First, there was the vice-presidential Bynes got the impression that FDR would welcome him as his running mate. But, when he got to Chicago, he was instructed to "clear it with Sidney Hillman." That was where the "clear it with Sydney" phrase, so effectively used by the Republicans, got started. Bynes told it to Bernie Baruch. Baruch told it to Arthur Krock, and on that score, Jimmy got his revenge.

Later, Bynes got what he thought was a definite promise of secretary of state when Cordell Hull resigned. He even made plans regarding the appointment of his staff. But, at the last minute, Harry Hopkins persuaded the president that Stettinius would be easier to manage, while Bynes would insist on running things his own way. So Bynes was out again.

Not Too Happy With Chief

Jimmy fully expected to retire as war mobilizer just before Christmas. Then came the Belgian bulge counterattack and it looked as if the war would be prolonged. So he stayed on. In January, Bynes came back to the president's office. In fact, the president except by telephone, though his office is in one wing of the White House. This coolness seemed healed when FDR took Bynes to Yalta. Politically, it was one of the smartest things the president ever did. For Bynes came back to give senators a close-up, favorable picture of Stalin and what went on there.

While he was away, however, Bynes's old South Carolina friend, Bernie Baruch, leveled a few barbs at him, implied he was ducking out of the Henry Wallace confirmation fight, also implied he lacked the nerve to demand a tough manpower bill and crack down on other civilian war laxity.

Actually, those who have watched Bynes work know that behind his soft-spoken South Carolina charm he has been a lot tougher than most people realized, that he has slaved day and night, that he has trodden on people's toes to right and left if it would help win the war.

But, now that he war is going well, Jimmy feels his job is done. And, not too happy with his chief, Bynes is getting out.

Talk of Delaying Parley Expected, Lawrence Asserts

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Talk of postponement of the San Francisco Conference is not unexpected. The American government has been alone from the outset in its desire to organize the United Nations into a general international organization during the war and without waiting indefinitely to accomplish that purpose. It is natural, therefore, that the elements which have no way to hold the conference during the war should seize upon any excuse to bring about a postponement.

The excuse now is that big events will be happening soon in Europe and that some of the important officials in various governments will be needed at home. This may be true, but there is no reason why any government should hesitate to attend a conference because one or more of its cabinet officers have other pressing tasks at hand.

Powerful Leadership Needed

The United States government has been pressing for the meeting of the United Nations, and the setting of the April 25 date was in a sense one of the few things the president got out of Yalta. After all, America wants no territory or reparations or any sphere of influence—in fact, nothing is wanted out of this war except a machinery to prevent another war.

Under the circumstances, the leadership of the United States ought to be sufficiently powerful at this time to persuade Britain and Russia to go along with the plan set at Yalta. Maybe Anthony Eden will not be able to come, as he may be needed in London, and maybe there will have to be other changes in the personnel of the British delegation but this ought not to interfere with the holding of the conference.

It may well be that American commentators who have interpreted Stalin's decision to keep Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow and let the Russian ambassador to Washington handle the San Francisco Conference as a disparaging move, have overlooked the possibility that military triumphs in Europe will create new political problems which require Molotov's assistance.

Jurists Should Write Charter

As a matter of fact, the writing of the San Francisco charter is a job for jurists or men versed in international law and the proceedings of international conferences. It would be a healthy turn of events if the strictly political statesmen were not present anyway and a conference of jurists could adopt a workable charter based on fundamental principles of international intercourse.

Also, in these days of rapid communication by plane and telephone it is possible for Anthony Eden to come to Washington for a few days this month and confer with the American delegation and get back to Europe the same week. He can keep in touch with the San Francisco Conference through his able envoy, Lord Halifax.

Pressure to postpone is one of the devices used to kill legislation in parliaments and congresses, but it also is true of international bodies. During the early part of 1919 the Republicans in the Senate as well as certain elements in Britain and France, demanded that President Wilson postpone the creation of a League of Nations till the peace conference was over. He knew that if the drafting of the league covenant was postponed, it would mean none would ever be written. That's why he tried so hard to keep the treaty alive. The League of Nations, however, critics have since arisen to say this was a mistake and that he should have agreed to postponement. But the events of this week show conclusively how efforts to postpone can be used to kill the whole idea of Dumbarton Oaks.

No Reason for Postponement

There isn't any really persuasive reason for postponing a conference on the setting up of an international organization to preserve peace and prevent a third world war. It is to accomplish this purpose that millions of American boys are supposed to be fighting overseas. Certainly the carving up of Germany or the setting up of small puppet states or spheres of influence is not the aim of the United States in this war. But the establishment of a mechanism to prevent a third world war is decidedly an American war aim.

The American forum for discussion can have a powerful influence on the making of a worthwhile charter at San Francisco. Intrigue and backstairs maneuvers can be brought into the open by an alert press. The president is doubtless being importuned by diplomatic messages to defer the conference, but he would be making a cardinal mistake if he agreed to do so. The prestige of the Dumbarton Oaks plan would be immeasurably damaged. Conversely, to hold the conference now in the face of obstacles is to renew the faith of peace-loving peoples everywhere that the main objective for which the war is being fought is not being neglected.

Administration Is Going to "Left", Sullivan Asserts

By MARK SULLIVAN

Officially, the post Mr. James F. Byrnes has resigned from is director of war mobilization and reconversion. Unofficially, Mr. Byrnes was called "Assistant President." Accuracy of the colloquial designation is especially justified just now, when the main function of the office will be conversion of the country's economic structure, and all that goes with that, from war to peace.

This conversion can be managed so as to direct the country either toward individualism or collectivism; in terms of a European jargon of politics imported to America, toward either the conservative "right" or the radical "left." President Roosevelt has always liked to say and repeated after his re-election last year, that his course is "a little left of center." A course of left of center, after being maintained for twelve years, becomes actually far toward the left. Just ahead of us, in the process of reconversion, will be the storm and stress during which the course cannot be adroitly adjusted to shifts of wind but is likely to become either due right or due left. Reconversion is the time of pay-off.

Vinson Is Well Liked

Mr. Byrnes's course has been prevailingly rightward, though with frequent compromises and conciliations that went with his temperament. His successor, Mr. Fred M. Vinson, is likewise rightward disposed. Definitely, this one appointment, standing alone, is not a change in direction.

But the trend as a whole is better measured by the sum of several recent changes. Of these, the one that can be best considered an accurate weather vane is the dismissal by Mr. Roosevelt of the conservative Mr. Jesse Jones as secretary of commerce, and substitution of the decidedly not conservative Mr. Henry A. Wallace. Awareness of the power of Mr. Wallace's office would have to determine the direction reconversion is to take, and apprehension about the direction Mr. Wallace's ideology might lead him to take, accounted for the action of Congress in shirking off some of the powers of the commerce post before confirming Mr. Wallace.

Similarly, though hurriedly and hence to some degree mistakenly, the Senate took account of the resignation of Mr. Byrnes. Senators took it as a reason greatly to reduce what disposition there had been to pass the national service "manpower" bill, which would have given to the administration, and specifically to whomever holds Mr. Byrnes's post, much control over the country's employers and workers. Senators must have known, as all well informed Washington does, that Mr. Byrnes's successor, already named, would be no more likely to use control over manpower in a radical direction than Mr. Byrnes would.

Congress Is Confused

But on the whole matter of reconversion, who is to conduct it and just what is to be done, Congress is nervously apprehensive. They know that several wartime controls must be extended for some time into the conversion period. Price controls, for example, must be maintained for a while if a postwar flat-price into inflation is to be averted. But

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well, I've just joined a car pool. That's the system whereby everyone saves gasoline by taking turns using their own cars. Or, at least, that's the way it was explained to me by the people I bumbled rides with every morning. You should see the car we're riding in this week! It's so old, the Smithsonian is out-bidding everybody else for it. In fact, we turned up the back seat and found a flapper. A flapper... That's a pre-Sinatra swooner! But every morning the driver has to put a small load of TNT in each cylinder to get the motor loosened up. We put Ethyl in it and the car ran fast all right... but it rattled so much, it took me a third block, Ethyl got out and walked! But I never heard a word of complaint when I drive my own car. In fact, it's so pleasant, I hate to fix that leak in my exhaust pipe. And it's well to find congenial people when you're sharing rides. It took me a while to find five persons who don't like to talk in the mornings but I finally rounded 'em up... and I talk all the way. But really, you do find out a lot about your fellowman by sharing rides... and if you're staying out of a car pool because you can't find any passengers you get along with, you're like the old lady who moved out of New York because there weren't any friendly people there. There must be something wrong with you.

(Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Congress is confused. It does not know certainly just what war controls need to be extended for a time. It is suspicious lest some persons in the Administration may wish to preserve wartime controls permanently. And Congress itself, strongly conservative, is determined to end as many war controls as possible; and likewise concerned about the ideologies and personalities of appointees to the executive department, such as Mr. Wallace and others, who may use power over reconversion to their own advantage.

In this respect, relations between Congress and the president, the resignation of Mr. Byrnes is a detriment. Three men in the administration, who had the confidence of Congress, are now out. The chief of the three in this respect, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, resigned because of illness. Mr. Jesse Jones was dismissed, and now Mr. Byrnes resigns.

With the passing of these links of confidence between Congress and the administration, Congress is likely to be even more watchful about proposals emanating from the administration that have to do with reconversion; and about presidential appointments to offices having reconversion functions.

Basic Principle Is Involved

"PRIVATE ENTERPRISE and its attendant political freedom will not endure in this country if people associated with each branch of industry defend their interests against socialist attack."

Editorial in Railway Age, February 19, 1945. "For this reason, not only ethical principles but far-sighted self-interest demand of railroad people that they give understanding attention to the political persecution being visited upon the privately-owned electric utilities."

Life In Germany Becomes Torture

A small part of this industry was preyed upon by financial gangsters some years ago, a fact which has been distorted by politicians. By the device of imputing to the whole utilities industry the sins assignable only to a part of it... socialist politicians have been able to give a mighty impetus to the development of government-owned electric power. As always with government ventures in competition with private enterprise, the politicians have seen to it that the cards are stacked in favor of the socialist rival, through tax exemptions and other such arbitrary advantages, so that the customers of government-owned utilities do not have to pay rates to cover all the costs that a privately-owned power company would have to collect.

"This development is not opposed by a large part of the manufacturing industry and other uses of power... because, while it is coercive and socialist, the owners of utility property appear to be thoughtless to be the only losers... These government ventures inevitably grow at a rate not justified by their comparative economic merit... A nation does not promote its economic welfare by indulging in uneconomic behavior..."

"Competition by the public treasury is not the enemy of the particular industry which is being attacked at the moment, but of all private enterprise... as even the manufacturers... will eventually find out by experience if they persist in refusing to learn it by precept and forethought."

Navy Building Program Slashed

SWEPPING AMERICAN naval victories in the Pacific have had one welcome and unexpected dividend in addition to the destruction inflicted on the Japanese and the speeding up of offensive schedules. Only a few weeks ago the navy announced a new construction program covering a new fleet of eighty-four warships of all categories. This part of the building program was intended as "insurance" against the possibility of heavy additional losses as the Pacific fleet closes in on Japan. But the need for the additional ships now seems so remote that the building program has been slashed seventy-five per cent to save manpower and steel for arms considered more essential.

The reasons for the reversal seem fairly clear. In the Pacific fleet was announced the Pacific fleet has dealt another crushing blow at what is left of the Japanese navy. The European war is hastening to a climax with unexpected speed, raising the possibility that all Allied naval strength can be concentrated in a series of operations of diminishing importance. Regardless of how the final curtain will be rung down, there is every indication that it will descend without undue delay.

With Patton on his trail, Hitler must be wishing that instead of Berchtesgaden he had built, instead, a nice, snug, comfortable cyclone cellar.

Four years ago the Nazis were drunk with victory. And what they're going through now is certainly a doo-dle of a hangover.

The Wages of Sin Is Death

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I am a sinner when I know my duty and too weak, too cowardly, to do it... I am a sinner when my heart tells me to be generous and my selfishness restrains my impulse... I am a sinner when I should give a helping hand to my fellow man and I turn aside from him.

Whenever I am guilty of this sin I know that I pass beneath the inexorable law that every man must accept: "The wages of sin is death." But the death that comes to all sinners is not death in the flesh. The man who fails his better self is not immediately struck down by lightning, nor does he waste away in his bed... But he does die.

A little of him dies entirely. The best part of him does waste away. Some of the light goes out of him. Some gentleness, some endearing quality passes away. A note goes from his voice. Youth goes too. A brightness in his eyes fades. A new expression comes to his face. New lines form about his mouth... In this way he dies.

No one pays a few lines in the paper to announce: "On the day John Brown failed to obey the best that was in him and a part of him died. The funeral will be private."

No, that's not the way it happens... At first no one but the man himself knows that he is as not as much alive as ever. But if he continues to sin against himself, people begin to say: "John has changed. I don't like him as much as I thought I did. He makes me uncomfortable. I thought I was a good judge of human nature, but I guess I'm not."

No, they're not mistaken. The man they thought they knew as well as no longer alive. Little by little parts of him died. The wages of sin were literally death. And I write "literally" because, after all, this is the only kind of dying that is actually death... You sin against the best that is in you and you are SURE to die.

LISTEN, WORLD!

—By Elsie Robinson
(Registered U. S. Patent Officer)

KINDS OF CONCEIT

If you were asked to tell which variety of human cussedness you considered most detestable, which would you name?
Egotism probably. Other vices may be more sinful. But I doubt if any riles us worse or gets by with more murder than plain old fashioned conceit. Also it's debatable if any human trait assumes more diversified forms.

For egotism isn't merely a matter of vanity—gloating over your Easter oufit or your peaches and cream complexion or that smooth real estate deal you swung. Such expressions of conceit are both simple and infantile. There are infinitely more subtle and vicious forms of this ancient game.

Grief, for example. What a prize spot for a showoff! A sincere mourner may be a moving and pitiful spectacle, deserving our deepest sympathy. But he or she may also be a scheming pest who uses every tear to grab the spotlight.

You've seen them at it. Hitherto they've probably occupied an inconspicuous place in the big parade.
But now fate has struck. Their hearts are broken—and they proceed to go to town. For who would dare ignore those humans the gods have crushed, much less criticize them or expect them to render a little normal service? Who is callous enough to remind them that others have suffered too? Yes, grief offers a golden chance for the egotist who wishes to promote his own selfish ends.

Sensitiveness—there's another popular shell game. Not the true sensitiveness which is unusually alert to the boorishness as well as the beauty of life—but the calculating citizen who uses his or her supposed frailty to pack a permanent peave. The chronic martyr, the human hangnail. As a means of getting your own way and making the other fellow jump when you crack the whip, sensitiveness heads the list.

And that's just the beginning.
Grief—remorse—illness—poverty
—they are only a few of the scores of methods by which egotism masks its ravenous hunger for attention. They are simple words—look tame enough on paper, don't they? But try to live with them! How many young romances have been blighted by the strangling clutch of the heartbroken parent who "can't bear to be left alone after all I've suffered and sacrificed!"

How many otherwise model husbands have run amuck at last under the whining lash of the well known refrain, "I gave you the best years of my life!"

But after all, why blame the racketeers? They couldn't operate if we refused to let them. If we had the gumption to tell them off just once . . . to call their bluff in plain and final words . . . we'd be free. But maybe we're running a little racket of our own. Perhaps it tickles our own vanity to think we're martyred innocents.

America and her "Underground"

We were sitting around after hours the other night talking about the progress of the war.
Chad Davis was saying how, in pite of Germany's defeat, there was still the German underground to cope with.

"I don't worry about them," says Sober Hoskins. "So long as we got our own underground in working order."

"What do you mean—our underground?" says Chad. And Sober points out to the fields.
"There it is," he says, "under that soil lies the most important weapon that we've got. American crops—from American fields

—strengthening our position overseas in a way no other underground can shake."

From where I sit, Chad's absolutely right. Whether it's for the glass of beer that cheers a tired soldier's spirits, or the bread that feeds our armies and our allies, every bit of grain that American farmers harvest is a part of America's great strength.

Miss Elizabeth Doub Sets May 12 for Her Wedding

Emmanuel Episcopal Church To Be Scene of Marriage

Miss Elizabeth Boyd Doub, daughter of former Judge Albert A. Doub, 403 Washington street, and the late Mrs. Anne Payton Cochran Doub, has chosen May 12 for the date of her marriage to William Anderson Glasgow, Washington, son of Mrs. Joseph A. Glasgow, St. Louis, Mo., and the late Judge Glasgow.

The wedding ceremony will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in Emmanuel Episcopal church, with the Rev. David C. Watson, rector, officiating.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will have Mrs. O. Bowie Duckett, Jr., of Annapolis, as her matron of honor; Miss Louise Wellington, this city, and Mrs. Frank M. Lee, of Washington, D. C., and Cumberland, as her bridesmaids; and Eleanor McCown, niece of Mr. Glasgow, as flower girl.

Mrs. Samuel Bicknell, of New York city, will be the vocal soloist for the program of nuptial music preceding the ceremony.

Following the ceremony a small reception will be held at the home of the bride.

Miss Doub is a graduate of Allegheny high school, this city, and National Cathedral school, Washington; she attended Wells college, Aurora, N. Y., and received her degree in law from the University of Maryland. From 1938 until 1942 she served as an Allegheny county member of the House of Delegates of Maryland when she resigned to accept a position with the federal government, as an assistant attorney in the OPA department in Washington.

Mr. Glasgow attended Washington and Lee university, Lexington, Va., before receiving his degree in law from that university. He is a member of the law firm of Hamilton and Hamilton, Washington, D. C.

GOP Women To Aid In Clothing Drive

Mrs. Paul M. Fletcher, president of the Woman's Republican Club, announces that the club to co-operate in the national clothing drive has cancelled the rummage sale it had planned to hold April 20. She requests that all members contribute to the drive and leave the clothes at one of the centers instead of bringing them to the monthly meeting.

Following the regular business session, which will be held at 8 o'clock April 19 at the little house, a social hour will be held with Miss Bessie Harrison in charge.

Cards will feature the entertainment, prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

Ridgeley Senior Class To Present Play April 12

Several Parties Are Given for Mrs. Atkinson

The senior class of Ridgeley high school has chosen the all girl "cast, three act play, "For Beauty's Sake," for its senior class play which will be presented at 8 o'clock the evening of April 12 in the school auditorium. A matinee will be given at 2 o'clock for the school children.

The entire action of the play takes place in the reception room of the "Davis Beauty Ranch," somewhere outside of Hollywood. It is under the direction of Miss Elsie Lou Hendrickson, senior sponsor.

The character of Caroline Davis will be portrayed by Dorothy Arington; McKendrick Davis, by Irene Mullin; Rosebud, the colored maid, by Mary Lou Sewell; Mabel Betty, Miriam Duer; Alice Krisher, Eleanor Perry; Pat Parker, Marie Rigglesman; the twins Anna Ames and Wanda Ames, will be portrayed by Nellie Lou Shannon and Bess Beecham by Ernestine Cook.

Two meetings will be held April 24 by Miss Helen Keller, Miss Maude Beane announced. Both will be in the lounge at Central YMCA. The first at 10:30 o'clock will be the Rural Women's Short Course meeting and the other the Executive Board of the County Extension Service.

Junior Extension Club To Hold Circus May 2

4-H Club Members Who May Join Group To Be Honor Guests

Cumberland Junior Extension Club will hold a recreation meeting in the form of a circus at 8 o'clock May 2 at the Flintstone school, at which time 4-H Club members, who are prospective members of the junior extension, will be honor guests.

Mrs. Phyllis Steger outlined the plans and said that like all circuses a parade will be held; and side shows, concessions and booths will be conducted by members in groups, which include Flintstone, Potomac Valley, Union Grove, Frostburg, Cumberland, and Barton-Lonaconing-Westernport forming one.

Miss Margaret Loar announced that the Girls 4-H Trail banquet will be held April 27 at Centre Street Methodist church hall when Miss Dorothy Emerson will be the speaker and a style review will be held.

Two meetings will be held April 24 by Miss Helen Keller, Miss Maude Beane announced. Both will be in the lounge at Central YMCA. The first at 10:30 o'clock will be the Rural Women's Short Course meeting and the other the Executive Board of the County Extension Service.

B. and O. Groups Will Plan Picnic

The Baltimore and Ohio Veterans and the Ladies Auxiliary will formulate plans for the annual picnic and summer outings at the meeting May 2. It was decided at the meeting last evening at the Baltimore and Ohio YMCA with Myers G. Light and Mrs. Anna Salyards presiding.

Walter Seel and E. P. Batte addressed the group on the national clothing drive, explaining where the clothes should be delivered, and the arrangements which had been made for packing and shipping.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hanson. Rice and her committee, after which games were played under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. F. Tracy.

There are two or three times as many people now in labor organizations as there were ten years ago, he pointed out in his closing topic and declared that even the farmers are better organized. Although he admitted strikes do get something for the strikers, the hardships brought on others are not considered, and asked the question if society benefits by a strike.

Merritt reminded his audience that all members of a group should consider what is best for everyone in the group. The wealth of a nation he declared is in its people and pointed out that it is the attitude of the Chinese and Germans which enables them to continue fighting; and refusing to give up kept the English from admitting defeat after Dunkirk, despite the food shortage and the damage from the bombings.

Discussing his second point, Mr. Merritt pointed out that even the best of men feel a depression will follow the war for he said, everyone is planning what they will purchase when articles are available and when they have all been bought production will naturally fall off and a depression will follow. He urged that now is the time to buy a house and land to guarantee a club. The committee of arrangements includes Mary Morgan, chairman; Harry Morgan, Mrs. Steger, Miss Bean and Earl Morgan. The honor roll will be hung in the county agent's office.

A discussion on the folk program recreation meeting held last month was conducted by William Shumaker, Nat Workman, Mrs. Emily Merchant, Mrs. Ruth Morgan, Imogene Ryan, Charles Llewellyn and Marian Valentine. Joseph Steger announced that Royce Johnson, president of the Boys 4-H Federation and vice president of the junior extension is a patient in Memorial hospital, and is able to see visitors.

Eugene Merritt, agriculturalist of extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture, speaking "When Hostilities Cease—What?" divided his talk into three parts, first "Your Future—Your Biggest Asset Is Within Yourself," second, "All Wars Are Followed by a Depression; This One Will Be, Too," and third, "More Group Action and Less Individual Action."

Too often civilization is measured by what is obtained on the indirect method of money method the speaker said, and stated that sixty per cent of satisfaction is from the indirect method and only forty per cent from one's self. On a farm the satisfaction is direct, he said but, to succeed they must like farming, and the most important item contributing to one's happiness is the choice of the right mate.

Here's a SAMPLE Puzzle—Just to Give You the Idea—SAMPLE PUZZLE ONLY

EXPLANATION

Note this Sample Puzzle. Notice the objects illustrated and the plus and minus signs, which mean that you add or subtract.

You see the letters O-A followed by a plus sign after which comes an object that is obviously an ARM. Therefore, to O-A you add the letters A-R-M, which gives you O-A-A-R-M. Then you subtract R as directed, leaving O-A-A-M. Next comes a plus sign followed by a P-E-N, so you add P-E-N, giving you O-A-A-M-P-E-N, to which you now add RING, plus the letter I, as directed. Thus you have O-A-A-M-P-E-N-I-N-G-I, from which you then subtract PIANO. So you cross out the letters P-I-A-N-O, leaving A-M-E-R-I-N-G-I, to which you add the last object, CAN, or the letters C-A-N, giving you A-M-E-R-N-G-I-C-A-N, from which you finally subtract the letters G-N-N, giving you AMERICA as the solution.

OPA Lists Basis on Which Landlords May Petition for Increasing Rents

How can a landlord get his rents raised? This is one of the many questions being asked by landlords now that federal rent control is in effect in Allegheny county.

In certain cases the rent regulations permit adjustments of maximum rents where conditions have changed since the maximum rent date, March 1, 1944. Grounds on which the rent director may raise the maximum rent are limited. Landlords must petition the rent director on forms provided for this purpose and must secure an order approving an adjustment in rent before collecting the new rent, according to the Office of Price Administration.

A landlord may apply for an increase in rent on the following grounds:

1. Substantial alterations to the premises, by a major capital improvement.
2. Substantial increase in services or furnishings.
3. Rents based on personal or special relationships between the landlord and tenant, where the rent on the maximum rent date was substantially lower than comparable rents in the area.
4. When Occupants Increase
5. In some cases where there has been an increase in the number of occupants of the property.
6. In some cases where special leases call for different monthly rents during the lease.
7. Where the terms of the lease in force on the maximum rent date began more than one year before that date and provided rents substantially lower than comparable rents in the area.
8. In some cases where the premises are rented on a seasonal basis, such as resort areas.
9. Where the property was temporarily exempt from real estate taxes on the maximum rent date and the landlord passed the benefit of his tax exemption on to the tenant by giving a rent substantially lower than comparable rents in the area.
10. Where a peculiar circumstance caused the rent on the maximum rent date to be substantially lower than comparable rents in the area.
11. Covers Bogies in Taxes
12. Where the rent is below comparable rents in the area and an unavoidable increase in property taxes and operating costs, since rent control, has resulted in a decrease in net income to the extent that it has become a substantial hardship.
13. In some cases where a housing unit built with priority rating, was rented prior to March 29, 1944, at a rent below comparable rents in the area.
14. In some cases where the tenant was an employee of the landlord on the maximum rent date, and the tenant and the landlord had agreed upon a rent increase in connection with a wage increase and the wage increase agreed upon has been put into effect.
15. A major capital improvement (Item No. 1) which substantially increases the rental value of the premises and for which improvement the landlord may petition for an increase in rent, will fall into one of the following classes:
 - (a) A structural addition. This is a clear addition to the premises, such as the building of an additional room or the installation of plumbing, heating or electricity where such equipment did not previously exist.
 - (b) A structural betterment, such as the modernization of an existing bathroom or kitchen or the replacing of a very old heating system with a more modern heating plant.
 - (c) A complete rehabilitation. Taken all together, this is a general reconstruction and reconditioning such as would place the property in a higher rental range. This is a general overhauling of the premises and not ordinary upkeep.
16. Landlords in Allegheny county are required to register in Cumberland, Frostburg and Westernport next week.

Other questions and answers on rent control will appear in subsequent issues of The Cumberland News.

Byrd Wants Board To Develop Weapons

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) proposed today a research board for National Security to develop new military weapons.

The army and navy carry on such research in peacetime, and since the war a special national council on inventions has been established. Byrd offered legislation to establish the research board as a permanent government agency of up to forty members appointed by the president from the army and navy, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and civilian technicians and engineers.

Operators Accused Of Favoring Strike

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 4 (AP)—While heavy absenteeism kept east Kentucky's coal production far below normal today, a union spokesman accused some mine owners in the Big Sandy field of deliberately encouraging a strike.

James J. McAndrews, secretary of District 30 of the United Mine Workers, said that foremen in the Big Sandy fields have been told by the operators to encourage miners to stay away from their jobs.

McAndrews said the foremen are telling the miners they will not get retroactive pay "and they are falling for it."

Cockroaches in Home, Ship Worker Leaves

BALTIMORE, Md., April 4 (AP)—Testimony that there were cockroaches in a home his wife and 13-year-old daughter failed to keep clean was offered today by Charles Erdman, 40, as the reason he left home to board with Mrs. Anna Mason, defendant in his wife's $50,000 alienation of affection suit.

Erdman, a shipyard worker, claimed that in addition to the lack of hygiene in his home, constant bickering with his wife broke down his health and caused him to lose forty-five pounds.

Although he gave his wife $65 a week on which to run the house, Erdman claimed, his home had only linoleum on the floors while neighbors with the same income covered their floors with rugs.

Asked by Attorney Mainen if he had ever done anything to remedy conditions in his home, Erdman replied:

German Prisoners Eat Ham, None for Boston Civilians

BOSTON, April 4 (AP)—Many of the thousands of German prisoners of war in this area ate ham for their evening meal on Easter Sunday, the First Service Command disclosed today.

The public relations office confirmed a Boston Traveler article to the effect that ham, which was virtually unavailable to citizens in the Boston Metropolitan area on the Sabbath, had been served in virtually all prisoner of war camps here.

"The Germans," the Traveler said, "ate ham for Easter Sunday—a luxury denied all but few American citizens . . . the remainder of the meals was oranges, lettuce, potatoes, bread and oleomargarine, fruit salad and coffee."

In confirming the Traveler's assertion that ham was served, the paper said that it was done under a recently established policy which entitles the prisoners to certain prescribed fares.

Selective Service Calls To Be Cut By Navy Department

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Some reduction in Selective Service calls for older men was forecast today as a result of a deep slash in the navy's draft requirements.

High officials who requested anonymity disclosed that the navy will need only about 16,000 draft registrants in May instead of twice that number as had been planned. They said the June quota, originally about the same as May, might be reduced by more than fifty per cent, and when the navy reaches peak strength in July there probably will be a further substantial cut.

The reductions for May and June amount to about a twelve per cent cut in the overall draft calls for the army and navy. They had been scheduled to approximately 132,000 men each month.

Gloria Vanderbilt May Wed Stokowski

RENO, Nev., April 14 (AP)—Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco went into seclusion today and could not be reached for comment on reports she would wed Leopold Stokowski, famed orchestra conductor.

A New York newspaper account said Stokowski left yesterday for Mexico and Gloria would join him there after securing her divorce decree from Pat Di Cicco of Hollywood. She arrived in Reno March 9.

Mrs. Di Cicco cancelled all engagements and refused to be seen or answer the telephone. Friends said she was "emotionally upset" over publicity linking her with Stokowski.

Davis Soldier, 35, Writes from His Prison in Germany

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va., April 4 — Mr. and Mrs. Rose Mahle, Davis, received a card from their son, Pvt. Errol C. Mahle, 35, saying that he was a prisoner of the German government. He was reported missing by the War Department since December 20, 1941 in Luxembourg.

Pvt. Mahle, who served with the One-Hundred Tenth Infantry, entered the service in May, 1942 and received his training at Fort Bliss, Texas, Camp Wallace, Texas, and Camp Davis, N. C. He has been overseas since September, 1944.

This is the first message that the parents have received from their son since they received the telegram from the War Department. He stated in his letter that he had received books and shoes from the American Red Cross and was in good health.

Announce Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hendrick, Hendricks, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sheila Jacqueline Hendrick, to C. J. Miller, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Miller, Sr., Waterloo, Iowa.

The single ring ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the First Baptist church, Parsons, Saturday evening, March 31, with the Rev. Carl A. Talley, pastor of the church officiating.

The bride wore for her marriage a white tulle dress of navy blue with which she wore white accessories and a corsage of pink roses and sweet peas. Miss Margaret Hendrick was her sister's only attendant and wore a street-length dress of pale blue with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink rose buds.

The bride attended Parsons high school. Miller has been employed by the Maryland Drydock and Shipbuilding Company, Baltimore. They will reside in San Fernando, Cal.

Girl's Athletic League and the National Honor Society of Davis

The wide attended Parsons high school, Miller has been employed by the Maryland Drydock and Shipbuilding Company, Baltimore. They will reside in San Fernando, Cal.

Arno Combs, 30, Dies in Hospital

By MRS. R. E. FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., April 4 — Arno Woodrow Combs, 30, died March 27 in Rockingham Memorial hospital, following an illness of two weeks.

Born July 4, 1914, he was a son of Elmer and Cora B. Whiteside Combs, Needmore. He served two years in the army and received an honorable discharge. On October 12, 1942, he married Miss Hattie June Lane, who survives him. He is also survived by a brother, Pfc. Llewellyn V. Combs, in the Philippines.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Pine Grove church, the Rev. P. P. Look, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Lane, officiating. Pallbearers were Luther Bradford, Jesse F. Wilkins, Orvan R. Bean, Leroy Combs, Guy Combs, Robert Garrett and Berlin Clark.

Club Elects Officers

Mrs. W. J. Teets was elected president of the Moorefield Woman's club at the annual meeting Monday night in the club room.

Other officers elected were:

Mrs. M. A. Bean, first vice president; Mrs. M. S. Shanholtzer, second vice president; Mrs. Ellen Kuykendall, secretary; Mrs. W. D. McCauley, treasurer; Mrs. Daisy Halterman, historian.

Mrs. Shanholtzer, retiring president presided and read the constitution and by-laws.

Mrs. Teets, chairman of the public welfare committee for the year just closing, asked that blood donors come forward for the collection at Romney April 13 or in Keyser April 10, 11, and 12.

It was decided to have a covered-dish supper in May and to invite

Mrs. E. D. Conway, state president, to be present as speaker.

The used clothing collection was discussed and plans made to assist the drive.

Lions Club Meets

The Moorefield Lions club broke all rules concerning its time limit for meetings and spent several hours discussing the flood control project which has caused so much discussion in the eastern panhandle.

The discussion and many other members offered ideas, pro and con. At the end of the discussion the Lions club went on record as unanimously opposing the project in its present form.

The group wished this resolution to be taken to Washington Tuesday by Judge Calhoun, Senator R. J. Bean, Carl Welton, president of the county court, and S. L. Dodd, county agent.

It was announced that at the next meeting of the club, T. Sterling Evans, state representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, would be present and address the organization.

Shaver is Imprisoned

Sgt. Dorman C. Shaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shaver, Linthicum heights, was reported missing in France December 16. No word was received from him until March 27 when a card reached his parents telling them he was a prisoner of war and was well. He asked them to get in touch with the Red Cross and have them send him some cigarettes.

Sgt. Shaver was in the One Hundred and Sixth division, Co. L, which was surrounded and became known as the "Ill-fated One Hundred and Sixth."

Lonaconing Plans For Town Election

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, April 4 — The mayor and council appointed the following election officials, for the town election to be held May 8, at their meeting Monday night in the council chamber, Railroad street.

Registrars, John McAlpine and Edward Stevenson; judges, Samuel James, James Creighton and John Barry; clerks, Arch Ferrens and Daniel Stakem. Revision and registration dates were made for April 13 and 20.

Jockeys, Little Guys of Sports, Rate Big Incomes

Ted Atkinson Reputed To Have Earned $90,000 Last Season

By FRED HAYDEN

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Jockeys are the little guys of sports, but they're far from being the smallest paid.

It is nothing for a topnotcher to knock off $50,000 in a 50-50 year. Ted Atkinson, leading 1944 booter with 287 winners, is reputed to have earned $90,000 last season. Eddie Arca, after galloping some horses at Hialeah park one morning following the racing man, said "1944 probably was my best year. I figure my gross income was about $70,000."

According to Jockey Bobby Merritt, the last year's good jockey riding on major tracks should make, even in a bad year, is $10,000.

It makes you wonder how it feels when such high-salaried members of a big business switch to the services of defense work. One-third of the Jockey Guild membership is reported to have gone into the armed forces and many others into war jobs. Sterling Young, guild proxy, took a Miami shipyard job during the winter and said he liked it.

Atkinson, twice rejected for being underweight, is the latest to get his induction notice and faces a drop in income from some $7,500 monthly average for 1944 to $50. But, as Arca says of him, Atkinson has been a good, hard-working type and deserves what he's made and saved.

Leaving out income taxes (and don't the boys wish they could), they must pay ten per cent to the agent making their engagements; pay and often stake valets, winning horses' grooms and exercise boys; defray cost of laundry, upkeep of tack, expensive saddles, riding breeches, boots and other items.

For first call on his services, a top rider can command some $1,000 per month. Retaining fees for a specific mount in a big race might hit half that much, plus traveling expenses.

Capital invested in the United States motion picture industry totals $2,061,500,000; employees total 204,000.

When Racing Starts Again

How long will it take racing to be ready for the 1945 renewal and to pick up part of its old form (if any) again? Not too long. For as you have heard before — "Hope springs eternal in the racing breast."

This goes for the owner and trainer — as well as the player. I'll tell you more about the player. During the winter and early spring intermission, most of the owners and trainers have still had their stables working out from Florida on up through Aiken and Columbia, on to Maryland and New York — not overlooking Kentucky.

These horses, from the two-year-olds and the three-year-olds, up into the older stock, are not yet racing keen. But many of them are not too far from being ready to run where the winter's rest has probably done them more good than harm. At least none of them has been overworked in a flock of races and most of them have been well-conditioned for the big scramble that waits just ahead.

Don't believe that such trainers as Ben Jones of Calumet, John Gaver of Greentree, Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, Preston Burch of Brookmeade, Englander of Longchamps, Max Hirsch, Hirsch Jacobs and a dozen others have been sleeping all this time since the curtain rang down on January 3. They've all been adjusting their vision to a late spring opening, some time in May, and they've been getting ready for this chance.

Horses Fairly Fit
Their horses are fit fairly fit — some almost ready. No one knows for sure just how a two-year-old will look when the main test comes and no one knows for sure how the new three-year-olds will respond under real racing conditions. But I happen to know that most of the leading owners and trainers are still "dreaming of the hour" after the manner of the Turk in his guarded tent, referring to the late Lord Byron's outburst.

It is an easy guess to say that more good horses will be ready at some early date than racing has had in a long time. And there will be more good openings for the long-shot selectors than we've had in a decade. For there will be a lot of wild guessing through the first few weeks at least, since there is a big difference between a workout and the race itself — especially under such changed conditions.

A Break for the Players
If the winter and early spring rest has been a good break for many horses, especially the younger ones, the horse players who attack the mutual windows have drawn even better luck. These millions will start with a four month's rest. Think of the strain they have missed. There are many I know who have already begun practicing quick starts in their apartments or along the streets or through the parks to be in shape for the first rush at mutual windows.

Others have already started running up and down elevated and subway steps to have their legs in shape. Many of these have begun reading old "Racing Forms" or "scratch sheets" to get into the old swing or groove. Northern tracks will no longer have dejected and weary players hoping to get back what they would have lost during the winter in the South. Or what they probably would have lost to bookmakers handling their affairs in Florida, New Orleans of the West Coast. These will return to racing with rested minds, better legs and bigger bank rolls. Their unassailed ears will be more attuned to the tips they will get.

There have been a few who took a crack at Mexico and Havana in recent months but not so many. Most of the bookmakers subsided and retired after the January racing ban.

I don't believe many people understand the beating the player takes. Far more than any horse who might run three times a week. Player Getting in Shape

As one of my experts tells me — "The horse needs only a minute or two for his day's work. The player works over the dope until far into the night — his dreams are restless and broken — he is at the track for over five hours the next day. Against two minutes for the horse in one race, the player uses up at least

Bi-State Circuit To Meet Tonight

All of the five schools which comprised the Bi-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference last spring are expected to be represented at a re-organization meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Knights of Columbus home here.

The session was called by Walter L. "Bill" Bowers, Allegheny High school athletic director and president of the conference.

Last year, Allegheny, LaSalle and Fort Hill, of Cumberland; Beall, of Frostburg, and Hyndman, Pa., high made up the conference with LaSalle taking the championship.

Although Bowers notified only the member schools of the meeting the confab will be open to any other school of the district interested in entering the circuit. Fort Ashby (W. Va.) high plans to field a team if arrangements to secure uniforms are completed and may be represented at the session.

Bainbridge To Meet Orioles This Weekend

BANBRIDGE, Md., April 4 (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, International League and Little World Series champions, will invade Bainbridge naval training center Friday and Saturday for two exhibition games with the Commodores.

Apprentice Seaman Howie Moss, who led the Orioles through their 1944 season, will face his former mates as the new third sacker for the Commodores. The International League's most valuable player last season, Moss batted in 141 runs and hit twenty-five homers to lead the loop in both departments.

After meeting Baltimore, the Bainbridge tossers return to big-league circles April 10 and 11 when they entertain the Washington Senators.

Apprentice Seaman Stanley Spence, Washington's top hitter last season, will be on first base for the Commodores.

Church Softball Loop Meeting Stated Tonight

Plans for the organization of a Central Y. M. C. A. Sunday School Softball League will be discussed at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the "Y." Bill Armbruster, president of the "Y" Sunday school basketball loop, will preside.

Thirteen churches have indicated they are interested in a softball wheel and more are expected to be enrolled tonight. Rules, a schedule and the matter of fields will be discussed at tonight's conference.

St. Paul's Hoop Squad Receives Chicken Dinner

Robert Sisson, "Y" General Secretary, Speaks at Banquet

St. Paul's Lutheran cagers, who lost out in the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League play-off after finishing the regular season in a tie for first place, were honored at a chicken dinner given last evening at the "Y" by the Sunday School department.

Thirty guests, including members of the squad and their parents, attended the affair. Earl E. Mangos served as toastmaster and Robert Sisson, general secretary of the Central YMCA was the principal speaker.

Sisson, addressing his talk to the members of the St. Paul's squad, declared that basketball and life are a lot alike. "If you play the game squarely, you'll come through," he said.

World Is "Run on Rules" The "Y" general secretary said that there are certain rules to be followed in life, the same as in basketball. "The whole world is run on regulations and rules," Sisson asserted. "You get out of life only what you put into it."

The boys of today will play a major part in the world of tomorrow. Sisson continued. He urged his young listeners to disregard scoffers and follow the examples set by Thomas Edison, Robert Fulton and other inventors. "You should never give up," he added. "Madame Curie and her husband worked four years and tried between 4,000 and 5,000 experiments before their efforts finally were rewarded by the discovery of radium."

Eugene "Jake" Hopkins, "Y" athletic director, Harold Fearer, manager of the St. Paul's team; Cliff Fearer, coach of the St. Paul's squad; Oscar Bergstrom, associate secretary of the "Y"; and James Orr, St. Paul's Sunday school treasurer, gave short talks.

Hopkins said St. Paul's tossers were among the best-coached and managed in the league and he also had a good word for organization of the team, in that it was always ready to start its games on time, always had enough players and had reliable timers and scorers.

Fearer Presented Gifts Bergstrom, after pointing out that the loop grew from twelve teams in 1943-44 to fifteen in 1944-45, said that prospects for further expansion are good and that the "Y" intends to continue its support.

Orr said that Coach Fearer, who expects to begin military service in the near future, deserves a lot of credit for St. Paul's showing. Fearer has tutored St. Paul's for the past three years and had a championship team last winter.

Fearer, presented gifts by the Sunday school and the squad, said that his team's showing this year came as even a surprise to him. Only Mervin Cox, high-scoring center, was available from the championship quint of 1944. He gave credit to the boys themselves and a break in the loop schedule.

The Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of 134 victories and 127 losses, although he failed to climb above 500 during a three season stint with the lowly Philadelphia Phillies from 1936 through 1938, has been bothered by his sore arm since January.

The shelving of Passeau, along with Ed Hanzewski's arm trouble, leaves Grimm with only three tossers he regards as starters—Bob Chipman, Hank Wyse and aging Paul Derringer.

Former Cotton Farmer Is Tiger Mound Prospect

Walter Wilson, 29, Won 18 and Lost 14 at Buffalo in 1944

By FRANK KENESSON

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 4 (AP)—Walter Wilson, 29-year-old Glenn, Ga., cotton farmer shooting for his first major league baseball chance with the Detroit Tigers, believes he has a great chance to make good in the big show and, he says, "I'm not going to kick it away."

The lanky, six-foot four-inch right-handed pitcher, says he is convinced "there never was a better time to break into the American League than today."

A relatively late start in organized baseball—he first became a professional at the age of 23—doesn't appear to be a drawback. He has had five years of minor league pitching and his work shows it. A cool and deliberate pitcher, he seems blessed with control and should be hard to rattle.

Detroit, sadly short on relief pitching in 1944, might have captured the American League flag with Wilson, but General Manager Jack Zeller didn't want to pull him out of Buffalo, where the Bisons needed him to stay in the International League pennant fight.

At Buffalo last season Wilson won eighteen games and lost fourteen, carving out an earned run average of 3.66. A few years back, with Goldsboro, N. C., in the Coastal Plains League he won more than twenty games, starting and finishing a string of nineteen in a row, of which he won fifteen.

"I'm convinced I'm good enough to be a big league pitcher," he said. "Now all I've gotta do is convince the other teams' hitters."

Passeau's Ailing Arm May Be Mended Before Season Opens

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—The pitcher-poor Chicago Cubs were cheered today by a report that the sore tossing arm of Veteran Claude Passeau may be mended in time for him to hurl the season opener against the champion St. Louis Cardinals April 17.

Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, said the arm was "not so bad" as Passeau feared when he left the Cub training camp in French Lick, Ind., Monday to have it examined here. Describing the ailment as a calcified area developed from an old elbow chip fracture, Dr. Davis said an X-ray examination indicated that surgery was not necessary and that treatment will be confined to a few days of deep X-ray applications.

Manager Charley Grimm had been counting on Passeau, who will be 34 next Monday, to take the mound on opening day and otherwise help the Cubs off to a good start.

Passeau, who has a major league record of 134 victories and 127 losses, although he failed to climb above 500 during a three season stint with the lowly Philadelphia Phillies from 1936 through 1938, has been bothered by his sore arm since January.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics took their second straight game from the Toronto Maple Leafs today, winning 2-1.

Luke Hamlin, former A's hurler, pitched hitless ball for four innings and it wasn't until he was relieved by Harry Jordan that the American Leaguers stick work began to tell. Two hits, a walk and an error in the A's half of the sixth won the game.

Jesse Flores went five innings for the Athletics, giving up four hits. He was relieved by Carl Scheib who allowed just as many safeties for the rest of the route.

"Y" SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE ALL-STARS TRIMMED BY COACHES

The Central Y.M.C.A. Sunday School Basketball League All-Stars were no match for coaches of teams in the loop and lost a 47-36 battle last night on the "Y" court.

The coaches, directed by Harold Fearer, led Eugene "Jake" Hopkins' crew all the way with quarter scores 10-8, 26-12 and 36-20. Hardman, Calvary Methodist mentor, paced the winners with eighteen points while Presbyterian's Evans had twelve.

Jimmy Mahgus, of St. John's, had four fielders, and Mervin Cox, of St. Paul's Lutheran, and Ronnie Sterne, of First Presbyterian, each had three double-doubles for the All-Stars. The lineups:

YANKS WHIP RED SOX

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 4 (AP)—Rookie Shortstop Joe Buzas, of the New York Yankees, stretched his exhibition game hitting streak to seven straight games today as the Yanks defeated the Boston Red Sox, 8-3.

Buzas doubled to drive in New York's first two runs in the second inning, then scored on Snuffy Stirrweiss's single. Doubles by Russ Perry and Nick Etten gave the Yanks another run in the fifth and Oscar Gimes clouted a homer with two aboard in the eighth, when New York bumped Francis Barrett for four runs.

Navy To Discourage All-Star Sports Teams

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The navy apparently has decided to discourage the formation of all-star sports teams in the country.

Navy officials were asked today about a report that Bob Feller, former Cleveland Indians star, will not be permitted to pitch for the Great Lakes team.

The officials said they had no direct knowledge of such a ruling on Feller but that there is a general practice to "break up all-star teams and get those boys into the war." It was added that considerable criticism had been received from men overseas of "name" players being rounded up for baseball and football games, particularly in the last gridiron season.

How far the policy of discouraging this might be extended was not immediately indicated. Other former major league players are members of various war teams in this country.

There was no comment from the War department on its attitude.

Newsom Will Report To Athletics Sunday

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 4 (AP)—Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics, received a telephone call from Pitcher Louis (Bobo) Newsom, now training in Hartsville, S. C.

"I see by the papers where some of the boys ain't been looking so good," he told Mack. "Well, I'll be in Baltimore Sunday to work against the Orioles."

Cubs' Home Contests Will Start at 1:30 P. M.

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—All home games of the Chicago Cubs this season, single games and doubleheaders, will start at 1:30 p. m.

The change from 3 o'clock on week days and 2 p. m. on Sunday has been made in an effort to provide more recreational opportunities for night time war workers, James P. Gallagher, business manager, said today.

Navy Nine Routs New York U., 11-1

By FRED STABLEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Generating a twelve-hit offense behind sterling pitching by Piebe Ronnie Burton, the Navy baseball team defeated the New York university nine, 11 to 1, today.

It was the Middles' second victory in as many games this spring. Vic Finos, chunky placekick specialist on the Navy football team, smacked out three 'b's to drive in four runs. One was a line double to left which cleared the sacks in the second inning and sent the Middles out in front to stay, 3 to 1.

Burton, who also received credit for the victory over North Carolina preflight Saturday, started badly. He was nicked for a triple, two doubles, two bases on balls and a run in the first two innings. From then on, however, he was invincible, allowing no more hits until the eighth, when Third Baseman Billy Wells singled to left center.

Doubles by Howie Extract and George Olsen accounted for the visitors' run in the second inning.

After picking up four in the second on two hits, a base on balls, a fielder's choice and an error, the Navy tapered off with single counts in the fourth and fifth before turning loose a five-hit five-run barrage in the eighth.

Ostermueller To Stay With Bucs until His Induction Date Is Set

MUNCIE, Ind., April 4 (AP)—Pitcher Fritz Ostermueller, one of three Pittsburgh Pirates to get the latest nod from Uncle Sam, decided today to remain with his teammates until his induction date is fixed.

The big southpaw was one of the leading selections for the opener at Cincinnati in about two weeks.

Etten Placed in 1-A

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—The Daily News said today that Nick Etten, 30, New York Yankees' first baseman now working out with the club at Atlantic City, N. J., has been reclassified 1-A by his Chicago draft board.

Etten, who had been working in a war plant here before leaving for the Yankee camp last week, previously had been classified in a critical industry.

Executive Committee Of Grid League Meets

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—The Executive committee of the National Football League held an important meeting today but refused to make any announcement of its business or recommendations until the regular league sessions.

Most important matter to be decided at the general league convocation starting Friday was the fate of the Sammy Sneed monopoly on first place winnings when the Iron Lung golf tournament opens here tomorrow.

Hines' card on the back nine included a hole-in-one and two eagles, and his work showed that Capitol City club officials wasted their time when they reduced par figures for the course from 71 to 69 in an attempt to keep the traveling pros from shattering par in this last tournament of the winter circuit.

Nelson, with seven tournament victories on the tour, and Sneed, with six, practiced pitching and putting today. Nelson shot a 67 in practice yesterday.

Pirates' Tourney Squads Announced

Fifteen players—divided into two squads—will represent the Cumberland Pirates in two of the four divisions of the eleventh annual Macabid invitational basketball tournament opening at Pittsburgh today.

The Pirate juniors, who will meet Wilkingsburg in their opener tomorrow morning at 10:30, consist of Mickey Cunningham, Eddie Mosner, Jimmy Eckard, Jimmy Pianagan, Roy Corner, Howard Rhodes and Bill Jones.

The Buc intermediates will clash with Bedford passers Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Comprising this squad are Billy Kelly, Joe Leedy, Bill Seefeld, Bill Mosner, Jimmy Young, Bob Keyser, Frank Moss and Kenny Ritter.

The two squads, accompanied by Coach Tommy Ford, will leave for Pittsburgh tonight and remain there until Sunday evening. If the Pirate juniors cop their opener, they will play again Sunday morning.

Pros To Open Iron Lung Golf Event

ATLANTA, April 4 (AP)—Thirty-nine-year old Jimmie Hines, of Great Neck, N. Y., shot a sizzling five under par 64 in a practice round today to give warning that he'll be out to break the Byron Nelson-Sammy Sneed monopoly on first place winnings when the Iron Lung golf tournament opens here tomorrow.

Hines' card on the back nine included a hole-in-one and two eagles, and his work showed that Capitol City club officials wasted their time when they reduced par figures for the course from 71 to 69 in an attempt to keep the traveling pros from shattering par in this last tournament of the winter circuit.

Arch Oboler Will Return to Radio With New Serial

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, April 4.—Arch Oboler, writer of radio drama in many categories, comes back to broadcasting again Thursday night. His newest and latest series is for the MBS at 9:30. To start off he will put on "Strange Morning," described as a "prophetic play written in anticipation of the day of Germany's capitulation." It is being substituted in place of the previously announced "Last for Life," which is being delayed until the second broadcast.

America's Town meeting, starting on its annual spring tour, is stopping first at Atlanta, Ga., for its Blue broadcast at 8:30. The question will be "Are Britain and America Headed for a Trade War after Victory?" The panel of four will include two senators, Owen Brewster and Charles T. Tobey.
Instead of Freddie Rich's, the orchestra now appearing in the Abbott and Costello show on NBC at 10 is that of Will Osborne... The Fred Waring musical time on the Blue at 10 will have as a feature a new Broadway musical show, to have its opening in April... Virginia McWaters, who eight years ago was a Major Bowes amateur and is now in opera, is the guest soloist for the Morton Gould concert on CBS at 9.

Freezing Weather Harry I. Stegmaier Is Installed May Ruin Fruit As Exalted Ruler of Eks Lodge

Trees Are in Most Sensitive Stage; Cold Wave Predicted

Freezing weather at this time will "knock the fruit crop" in Allegany county, Ralph P. McHenry, county farm agent, said last night as the weather bureau warned of a cold wave threatening this section.

He added, however, that little other damage would result inasmuch as few crops have been planted yet. McHenry pointed out that fruit trees, now in full bloom in the lowlands and coming into bloom on the mountains, are advanced a month ahead of schedule and are now in their most sensitive stage.

Orchardists of Allegany county and neighboring West Virginia agreed with McHenry that freezing weather would be disastrous to the crops ordinarily yielded by their thousands of apple, peach and cherry trees.

Crop Lost in 1921

Henry W. Miller, Jr., Paw Paw, W. Va., vice president and general manager of the Consolidated Orchard Company, largest local fruit shipper, said that the weather in 1921 was similar to that of the month just past, but on April 5 or 8 there was a complete freeze that cleaned up the fruit crop, Miller said.

The Consolidated firm, which operates orchards in Allegany County, Md., and Morgan and Hampshire counties, W. Va., has about 40,000 bearing trees, said Miller, pointing out that ninety per cent of them are apple trees and ten per cent peach.

Miller and other orchardists as well as McHenry were in agreement that there is nothing much that can be done to avert damage to their crops in event of a freeze. Miller stated, "That's one of the hazards of the game" but he added that there has not been a bad freeze in many years.

Many "Oddities"

Miller's uncle, L. P. Miller, also of Paw Paw, president and manager of Appalachian Orchards, Incorporated, which operates three orchards with a total of 26,000 trees, 22,000 of them apple, 2,000 peach and 2,000 cherry, said there are "so many oddities" to raising a fruit crop "it is hard to tell what will happen."

The Appalachian firm has orchards in West Virginia near Pinch, Upland and Mountain Dale, all mountainous sections, and Miller said that in event of a freeze it is possible all of his orchards would not be hit because of the three different locations.

E. B. Cox, manager of the Appalachian orchard near Pinch, pointed out that that orchard is "above the frost line" but "a freeze would hit us."

Good Crop Possible

Blooms already are off the cherry trees there, he said, but some of the 5,000 bearing apple trees are in full bloom and others are coming out. He predicted a good apple crop this year unless cold weather or other factors cause a setback.

Frank McFarland, operator of the Sunset Orchards on Martin's mountain, said it will be a "little later" until his two to three thousand apple trees come into bloom. McFarland indicated that his trees are pretty well set, but there was a light shower yesterday afternoon and last night a hard thunderstorm hit this section and the air turned colder.

Hard Thunderstorm

To combat the impending freeze, McHenry advised orchardists to do some spraying for the time being and try to keep their trees dry since they are not hurt as easily then provided the weather does not get too cold, but there was a light shower yesterday afternoon and last night a hard thunderstorm hit this section and the air turned colder.

Weather Forecast

The weather forecast predicted showers and shifting winds to be followed by a drastic temperature drop. A cold blanket of air swept New England, and New York City reported a forty-five degree temperature yesterday morning. Cheyenne, Wyo., recorded one degree below zero, and showers and snow are scheduled for Iowa and Ohio.

Two Youths Hurt In Auto Crash

Two West Virginia youths were admitted to Memorial hospital last night for treatment of injuries suffered when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on the Oldtown road, about three miles northwest of Paw Paw, W. Va.

State Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who investigated, said the injured youths are William S. Brown, 21, Route 1, Paw Paw, and Charles Henderson, 17, Largent, W. Va.

At a memorial hospital, said Brown suffered lacerations all over his body and added that his condition is serious. They said Henderson suffered facial lacerations and did not appear to be seriously hurt.

Brown was driving the car, a convertible coupe, Rotruck said, when it swerved to the left side of the highway, travelled along a dirt bank for sixty or seventy feet, returned to the center of the road and overturned on its top about 7 p. m.

The driver was pinned beneath the machine but was freed by passersby who summoned an ambulance from Paw Paw to remove Brown and Henderson to the hospital here.

Two other youths whose names were not learned were riding in the car but were uninjured, Rotruck reported.

The investigation is being continued.

Engineers Fail To Make Decision On Savage Dam

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON, April 4. (P)—The Board of Army Engineers delivered today a report on the proposed $1,451,000 dam to be built on the Potomac River Basin development.

The board, in an unusually speedy decision, rejected the district engineer's recommendation for construction of fourteen dams on the Potomac and its tributaries only a day after approximately 1,000 residents of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia urged such action.

Submits Adverse Report

"The board x x x has decided to submit an adverse report relative to the fourteen dams proposed by the district engineer," said Brig. Gen. John J. Kingman, senior member of the board.

He announced the decision in a letter to Senator Byrd (D-Va.), one of the principal opponents of the plan.

Byrd had asked the board to hold additional hearings in the Shenandoah valley, where two of the project sites are located, if the plan were to be given serious consideration.

"I am pleased to inform you that it will not be necessary to hold the desired hearings," General Kingman said.

The board held in abeyance its decision on other recommendations of the district and division engineers recommending construction of the fourteen dams was made public early this year, a storm of protest has been generated in the area north and west of Washington, where approximately 176,000 acres of approximately 176,000 acres would be flooded.

Because of the intense agitation, an aide of the engineers board said, the seven-man body adopted what he called a "most unusual" step of announcing its decision less than twenty-four hours after the conclusion of the hearing.

With such overwhelming opposition among the residents and in Congress, there seems little chance the project will be realized, although technically it is still alive.

Local News in Brief

Richard P. McCordell, 730 Bedford street, is the author of an article titled "The House Next Door," in the May issue of Reader's Scope. McCordell is a brother of Roy L. McCordell, New York author, and a cousin of Lee McCordell, Baltimore Sun correspondent with the American armies in Germany.

West Side firemen extinguished a small grass fire on Thompson avenue yesterday at 1:11 p. m. There was no damage.

The first in a series of marble tournaments open to boys and girls of Junior A and B classes at Central YMCA, will begin at 9 a. m. Saturday on the tennis court in back of the "Y," according to Oscar I. Bergstrom, associate general secretary. The YMCA will supply the marbles. Bergstrom said, but contestants are allowed to bring their own "shooters."

V. A. Rogerson, representative of the Clarksburg, W. Va., district office of the War Production Board, will be in Cumberland Friday to interview persons who have priority problems. Appointments can be made by telephoning the chamber of commerce office.

Pvt. Harry Crock Gets Bronze Star Medal

Pvt. Harry Crock, Springfield, W. Va., a member of the Fourth Armored division of the Third army, has received the Bronze Star medal for "tireless devotion to duty while under fire," according to a recent dispatch from Lee McCordell, Baltimore Sun correspondent with the Third army in Germany.

Pvt. Crock received the medal from the commanding officer of the armored division, the dispatch said.

TO ENTERTAIN PIONEERS—

Janie Knight, left, vocalist with "Four Kings and a Queen," and Florence Berg, right, soprano, featured on "Melody Time" programs of radio station KDKA, Pittsburgh, are among the entertainers booked to appear on the twentieth anniversary program of the Celanese Pioneer Club Saturday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. Nat Nazarro, former Ziegfeld Follies star, will act as master of ceremonies for the floor show.

Edwin R. Lilya Will Attend FBI Police Academy

Acceptance of City Detective Edwin R. Lilya, of 539 Fairview avenue, for a special course in police training at the Police Academy of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C., was confirmed yesterday by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, in a telegram to James Orr, commissioner of police and fire for the City of Cumberland.

The course of thirteen weeks is scheduled to start Monday, April 16.

A member of the Cumberland Police Department since 1941, and detective for the past year, Lilya was recommended for the course to the FBI six months ago by Commissioner Orr.

The FBI special course is conducted annually for police from all sections of the country with each class limited to 30 many officers.

Detective L. B. Frank Gaffney, of the Cumberland Police Department, took a similar course during the administration of the late Harry Irvine as police and fire commissioner.

Commissioner Orr stated that at the conclusion of the FBI course, Lilya and Gaffney will conduct a police training program for members of the local department. Many of the new methods in police work as recommended by the FBI will be introduced in the training of members of the Cumberland force, the commissioner said.

Lt. Burns, 22, Dies in Action At German Front

A son of a former Cumberland resident has been killed in action in Germany, it was learned today, when two of them from Cumberland, have been reported wounded.

Lt. William Burns, 22, son of Mrs. Adelaide Fesenmeier, formerly of Cumberland, was killed while serving with the infantry of Patton's army in Germany.

The grandson of the late Michael L. Fesenmeier, city, he visited his grandfather each summer. Lt. Burns, a native of Baltimore, was commissioned in January after having been in the service two years. He was sent overseas the same month.

Besides his mother, he leaves his step-father, Emmett Bradley, two half-brothers and a half-sister, Robert and Lee Bradley and Elizabeth Bradley, at home.

Pvt. DeWarran O'Neal, husband of Mrs. Ruth O'Neal, 212 Greene street, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess O'Neal, Christie road, was wounded in the right arm in Germany March 25 and is now a patient in an English hospital.

The father of a six-year-old son, Pvt. O'Neal has been overseas eight months. He was a member of the Ninety-third infantry division of the Third army.

Pvt. Leroy D. Saville, whose wife resides at 204 Humbird street, was wounded in France March 16, two months after he had been sent overseas. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge Saville, 402 Grand street, he was transferred to the infantry after two years in the air corps. He has been in service twenty-six months.

Pvt. John E. Davies, Jr., son of Mrs. Thelma V. Davies, 181 Ormond street, Frostburg, was wounded in the European theater.

Lions Representative Inducts Four New Local Club Members

Four new members were inducted into the Cumberland Lions Club by Lawrence Slater, special representative of Lions International, who was principal speaker at the local club's luncheon meeting held at noon yesterday in Central YMCA.

Slater pointed out that Lions International now has more than 204,000 members in almost 5,000 clubs in fifteen nations. He added that 110 new clubs were organized in the period from January 1 to February 28 and said that members of Lions clubs are people with different backgrounds, different beliefs and different languages.

Although membership in Lions International is limited to invitation, Slater said the purpose is not to be exclusive but selective.

The new members inducted were Edwin Lewis, George Humphries, Allen Stainer and Oscar D. Parrish. Lawrence Grubbs and Alvin E. Yates were presented with awards for getting new members of the club during a contest held in January.

Allegany County Yule Seal Sale Brings $5,841

Final returns on the 1944 Christmas seal sale in Allegany county totaled $5,841.13, an increase of twenty-five per cent over the previous year, according to a report issued yesterday by Dr. Samuel Wolman, president of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

Allegany county's sale in 1943 amounted to $4,656.

Final returns on the state sale showed a total of $213,831.29, an increase of fifteen per cent over the previous year.

Dr. Wolman said all counties, with one exception, showed an increase over the previous year. Somerset county increasing its sale by 126 per cent, Carroll county by 110 per cent and Wicomico county by eighty-eight per cent.

Garrett Tops 1943 Mark

Garrett county's total of $755.71 was sixty-two per cent above the 1943 figure.

Allegany county ranked fifth among the counties of the state in total sales. Topping this county were Montgomery, Baltimore, Prince George's and Anne Arundel in the order named.

Dr. Wolman thanked the thousands of Marylanders who so liberally contributed and assured them that the funds raised will be used to combat tuberculosis in their community.

"During the past few years we have greatly increased our program of free clinics and X-raying, and as our sole financial report is through the annual sale of Christmas seals, this increased program is assured," he said. The state president said the success of the sale was due to the untiring efforts of many volunteer workers and he thanked them for their assistance.

County Totals Given

The amounts raised by counties, with the percentage of increase in parentheses:

Allegany $5,841.13 (25.8); Anne Arundel $8,671 (19); Baltimore $20,305.80 (17.5); Calvert $420.42 (21.2); Caroline $878.92 (18.7); Carroll $2,466.38 (110); Cecil $2,945.92 (3); Charles $1,051.36 (19.5);

Preview Opening Held At New Store Here

A preview opening was held from 7 to 9 p. m. yesterday at Cumberland's newest store, Iles, Inc., 183 Baltimore street. No merchandise was on sale during the preview, which was open to the public.

The new concern will carry a line of Firestone tires and tubes, auto accessories and home use products. The company will also operate a retying plant at 208 South Mechanic street.

Harry N. Iles, Pittsburgh, Pa., who has been connected with the Firestone organization for ten years, will be the manager of the store and the retying plant, with a personnel of twelve persons. Harry Alexander, Cumberland, who has been associated with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company here for sixteen years, will be the operating manager of the store.

A. Charles Stewart Flays Method Of Distributing Trout in State Celanese Pioneers Will See Leading Stage, Radio Stars

When the members of the Celanese Pioneer Club get together Saturday evening at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of their production at the Annapolis plant, there will be music and entertainment to match the mood of the occasion, with a variety of top-flight stage and radio stars on hand to do the honors.

Chairman Leslie Brode and John J. Rowan of the Pioneer Club's entertainment committee, after months of negotiation, have finally lined up a program for the affair that would be worth the time of any big-time theater audience.

Dinner music will be provided by "Four Kings and a Queen," a musical quintet featuring lovely Janie Knight, vocalist, which is currently appearing at the Rolling Rock Country Club, Pittsburgh. Immediately following the dinner, Nat Nazarro, former Ziegfeld Follies star, and feature attraction at the Winter Garden Theater in New York for over two years, will take over as master of ceremonies.

Outstanding performer of the floor show over which Nazarro will preside is John Gallus, one of America's foremost novelty entertainers, who has previously been on the theatrical tours with Rudy Vallee, Glenn Miller and Earl Carroll's Vanities, and comes here direct from the Terrace Room of the Williams Hotel, Pittsburgh. Another stellar performer on the program is Jimmy Barrie, who has held feature spots on the Paul Whiteman and Pic and Pat radio shows. Barrie provides a musical act, doing impersonations of name bands.

Florence Berg, soprano, featured on the "Melody Time" radio program, KDKA, Pittsburgh, will present a variety of selections, both modern ballads and classics, for the guests, and "Maxine," a versatile dancer, will appear in several character dance numbers.

Stewart also criticized Bentz for saying that there would be about 15,000 trout available from the Bear Creek hatchery for use in the stockings this year. He asserted that the man who operates the hatchery, and who really knows the situation, said there would be only about 2,500 trout available for distribution in Allegany and Garrett counties.

The first president of Bentz, according to an article which Stewart read from the Baltimore Sun of March 18, 1,000 big rainbow trout and brown trout, some of them more than sixteen inches in length, were planted in Jones Falls March 17. Western run also delivered a complement of leg-sized trout and other streams will be stocked in ample time before the opening of the trout season, the article said.

Says Change Is Needed

Stewart quoted Simeon Green, president of the Board of Allegany County, who is a member of the Sportsmen's association, as terming Jones Falls "a very inferior stream and that in his opinion it is nothing more than a good sized mud hole." Yet Stewart said 1,000 big trout were placed in it.

The speaker asserted that Bentz and Powell were invited to the meeting Tuesday night and had been invited to other meetings, but added that "evidently Mr. Bentz does not consider this region important enough for his consideration."

"If we are to be ignored at all times," Stewart said, "and are not to be given any consideration, then I would suggest that we write the governor, requesting that he ask the resignation of both Mr. Bentz and Mr. Powell."

Stewart said that one of these days our boys are coming home from the far-flung battlefields and they are going to need and deserve every consideration we can give them. We must not offer, and they do not expect either sympathy or pity, the speaker declared. But, they do want a chance to again take their places in the vocations for which they are being trained, he said.

"This can only be done under the proper environment," Stewart said, "on the restful mountains and in the peaceful valleys, hunting the native game and fishing for trout in our mountain streams. This is going to be our job and we must prepare for it."

Smith Opposes System

Fulcher P. Smith, a member of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, was the second speaker and he said at the outset that he could not defend the action of the commission, for allowing the present distribution of trout in the state. But, he declared, there did not seem to be much he could do about it. He said he is on record time after time as opposing the distribution. He "tends to do all he can to see that Allegany and Garrett counties get more fish."

Smith said that of the fifty-four streams used in the state for trout in the last fifteen years for trout per cent of them are in Garrett county and that forty-six of the fifty-four are in four Western Maryland counties, Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick. He said the responsibility of distributing fish rests upon the fish department, and that Powell is in charge of all hatcheries.

The game commission member gave the following figures on trout stocked in the state in the past several years:

In 1939, 42,000 trout were stocked in the state, with 17,000 going to Allegany and Garrett counties.

In 1940, 68,000 in the state and 21,000 in Allegany and Garrett.

In 1941, 65,000 in the entire state with 19,400 going to Allegany and Garrett.

In 1942, 51,000 in the state, with 13,000 going to Allegany and Garrett.

In 1943, 27,000 in the state, and 13,000 to Allegany and Garrett.

In 1944, 30,000 in the state, with 6,650 going to Allegany and Garrett.

Favors More Hatcheries

Smith said he objected strenuously to the present system.

City Fireman Injured

Herman J. Miller, 217 Valley street, was treated in Allegany hospital after being injured while fighting a fire at the East Side Fire Company No. 4.

New York State Legislator Will Address Seniors Orlo M. Brees Will Speak at Fort Hill, A.H.S. Commencements

Orlo M. Brees, member of the New York State legislature, will be the principal speaker at the commencement exercises of Fort Hill high school, Thursday, May 31, and Allegany high school, Friday, June 1, it was announced yesterday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county public schools.

The speaker is heralded as a dynamic personality who personifies to an unusual degree the American spirit of freedom and enterprise. His background covers wide occupational contacts — coal miner, textile worker, salesman, teacher, printer, author, editor, minister and legislator.

Serving for Third Term

He entered the New York State Assembly from Broome county in 1940, and has been continued, by re-election, in that office. In 1944 he was elected to the legislature for the third successive two-year term. He is a Republican and his home is in Endicott, N. Y.

According to press notices, Brees is a keen observer and an informed student of public affairs, combines a dominant sense of humor, a captivating delivery and a varied arrangement of material to offer programs that bring him repeated engagements with the same organizations.

Mr. Brees is the author of the book "Spudville Philosophy and Philosophy." Commenting on the book a Youkers, N. Y., newspaper-book reviewer termed the author "as American as Buckwheat Cakes and Sausage."

The speaker has appeared before the East Stroudsburg, Pa., State Teachers College; Newark, N. J., Rotary Club; Berks County Agricultural Association, Reading, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa., Builders Exchange; Venango county, Pa., public schools; Optimist Club, Syracuse, N. Y., and State Teachers College, Oswego, N. Y.

Other Dates Announced

Graduation exercises will be held in Central high school, Lonaconing, May 31, and at Beall high school, Frostburg, May 31. High schools: Westernport; Barton, Flintstone and Oldtown high schools on June 1.

Young Sailor, Hurt In German Prison Break, Is Home

A veteran of nearly four years' service in the merchant marine, during which time he survived the sinkings of two cargo ships and one tanker in the Pacific area and escaped from a German prison camp in Norway, a British sailor, tossed a grenade among them and Davis "brought down" a few of the Germans, although he was wounded in the right thigh.

When we got to Sweden, we were arrested and put in jail, but an American consul arranged for our release," the young sailor said. "We were shipped back to England, where I was in a hospital at Hull before returning last month to the United States."

Before entering the service in 1941, Davis attended Allegany high school. One brother, Charles, William Davis, is with the army in Germany. Another brother, Leroy Davis, and a sister, Miss Dorothy Davis, live at Waverly terrace.

Three other men and two nurses were in the group with Davis, and they managed to reach a Norwegian town, where patriots aided them. A German patrol spotted them near a Swedish border, but one of the patriots, a British sailor, tossed a grenade among them and Davis "brought down" a few of the Germans, although he was wounded in the right thigh.
